School Workers' Summer Pay Dead

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A proposal to pay summer jobless benefits to school employees such as janitors and bus drivers has been shouted down in the state Senate. In overwhelming voice votes, the chamber Wednesday rejected efforts to permit such nonprofessional school employees to qualify for unemployment compensation during the summer months when they aren't working.

It was a key victory for Michigan school districts, which warned it would cost about $56 million a year extra to provide such benefits, which are not paid now. It was a defeat for organized labor, which had pushed for summer jobless benefits for the workers, many of them unionized.

The vote came as the Senate approved a complicated and important bill to bring the state into compliance with federal unemployment regulations. The measure passed 30-0 and went to the House. The bill — and federal law — does not require unemployment benefits be paid to teachers as long as they expect to be rehired in the fall. It makes several important changes in other parts of the program, however.

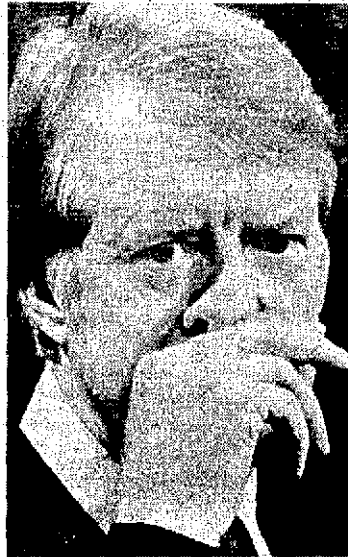

Sen. David Plawewski, D-Deerborn Heights, argued that non-professional school employees are entitled to summer jobless benefits despite the fact they took the job knowing it was a 9- or 10-month position. Plawewski is chairman of the Senate Labor Committee and author of the bill. He tried vainly to erase provisions which deny benefits to school workers. He argued that other workers who suffer periodic or seasonal layoffs — such as auto and construction workers — are entitled to jobless pay. "The majority of people in low-income jobs need some stability in income," he said.

But other senators, while admitting Plawewski's argument had some merit, contended schools just can't afford to pay millions in extra unemployment benefits. "This is a benefit they've never had, they never expected and we cannot afford," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Detroit. "The school districts are not going to raise the millage and the legislature is not going to appropriate the money. Programs will have to be cut back."

The bill itself is designed to protect Michigan employers from the loss of up to $500 million in federal unemployment tax credits and other funds by bringing the state into compliance with federal law by the end of the year. Under its changes, many agricultural and domestic household workers now will be covered by unemployment compensation. Almost all state and local government employees will be covered by the state. But professional athletes between seasons and teachers returning to work in the fall cannot draw jobless pay.

Carter Now Seeking Successor For 'Irreplaceable' Bert Lance

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is trying to replace a man he says is irreplaceable.

Stunned by the resignation of longtime friend Bert Lance as his budget director, Carter began the search today for a successor.

"There will be an orderly transition," the President told a news conference Wednesday when he announced Lance's resignation. "I will decide beginning after today on who a successor might be."

Among names that quickly surfaced were:

—James T. McIntyre Jr., director of Georgia's budget office in 1972 while Carter was governor and now deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, which Lance had headed.

—Robert Strauss, a former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and now the U.S. ambassador for trade negotiations.

—Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office.

—Hale Champion, former California finance director and now an official at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter said the task of finding a new budget director won't be easy.

"I don't think there is any way that I could find anyone to replace Bert Lance that would be, in my judgment, as competent, as strong, as decent and as close to me as a friend and adviser as he has been," the President said.

"Obviously, the government will continue," Carter declared, "and I hope to do a good job as President, and I am sure a successor will be adequate."

"But there has been a special relationship between me and Bert Lance that transcended official responsibilities or duties or even governmental service of the last six or seven years."

"So he has occupied a special place in my governmental career, in my political career, and in my personal life. I don't think there is any way anyone could replace him now."

Carter hinted that he might have an additional problem because of the controversy that finally forced Lance to resign.

Asked if the Lance affair had damaged his own credibility with the American people, the President replied: "I can't say. I'd guess to some extent."

In a letter to "My Dear Mr. President," Lance quit "because of the amount of controversy and the continuing nature of it" surrounding his personal financial affairs and his business dealings as the head of two Georgia banks.

His departure ends the first internal crisis in the President's young administration.

Lance's business and banking practices have been under investigation for several weeks by the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, Justice Department, Securities and Exchange Commission, Federal Election Commission and Internal Revenue Service.

They are looking into large overdrafts at Lance's First National Bank of Calhoun, Ga., by Lance, members of his family and the committee that ran his 1974 campaign for governor of Georgia; two multimillion-dollar personal loans at banks where his National Bank of Georgia had special accounts; his use of the same collateral for

BH Officials Defend Police Gun Rule

Benton Harbor City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. and Police Chief Andrew Rodez say the Berrien County Deputies association is misinformed about the city police gun regulation that resulted in a 15-day suspension for Patrolman Lloyd Hughes.

The association, which represents Berrien sheriff's officers, yesterday blasted the regulation in letters to Farmer and Mayor Joel Patterson, saying Hughes should have been commended instead of suspended for firing a shot at a fleeing burglary suspect.

The Benton Harbor department's policy says that an officer may only fire his weapon at a known felon who used or is attempting to use deadly force in the commission of a crime when all other attempts to prevent escape have failed.

Farmer said this morning that a similar regulation has been adopted by 24 states and is recommended by the FBI.

"They do not know what they are talking about," Rodez said of the association's letter. "(They) are not well apprised of existing laws and restrictions."

Farmer said the city police department recently had a case where the owner of a manufacturing firm accidentally tripped a burglary alarm at his plant late at night and city police answered the alarm. "What if the guy had gotten scared and ran when police saw him coming out of the building?" he asked. "What if we would have shot the guy?"

"When a policeman takes his oath," Farmer said, "he vows to protect life and property, not property and life."

Rodez said the department policy, which was adopted in 1971 before he became chief, offers the best protection for the city and police officers against charges of criminal liability.

Farmer said the cost of liability insurance for cities has tripled over the past several years and there has been a "preponderance" of criminal liability awards.

"Even though I think it (the letter) is well intended, I think it's directed at the wrong department," Farmer said. "If they want that kind of legislation, they should go to the state legislature."

Allegan Bill Headed For House

By ROB WILSON

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill appropriating $4.2 million to convert a seminary to a prison in Allegan County is being readied for House debate.

The bill cleared the House Appropriations Committee on Wednesday.

An out-of-court agreement was reached this week to allow the state to go ahead with conversion plans for the St. Augustine Seminary near Saugatuck.

Under the agreement, the county or a third party will have the option of buying the facility and surrounding property in 4½ years.

The Prison Action Committee, a citizen's group opposed to the conversion plans, agreed to halt its legal fight if the agreement is approved.

If the county does buy the property — some 549 acres of which about 45 acres will be set aside for the prison — the surrounding area would have to be maintained in its natural state.

The bill approved by the committee includes an amendment specifying the terms of the agreement. It also includes an amendment that would retain the facility as a medium-security institution and not allow it to be later converted to a minimum-security facility.

"I think we've been able to obtain an extremely good bargain," Budget Director Jerry Miller said. He said he didn't think the county would buy the property in four years because the prison would provide jobs for about 200 persons.

He also said the county might not be able to afford the property when the time comes to buy it. Under the agreement, the county would have to purchase the entire 549 acres, to be resold under the state's original price tag of $4.2 million.

"The desire for the land might be there, but the money might not," Miller said.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, spoke against the plan.

"I think the county is going to be severely damaged by putting that facility in the area," said Byker. "It doesn't fit the environment of the rest of the area. This is an act of desperation as I see it."

The prison would be located in the midst of a wilderness area and close to a Lake Michigan beach frequented by tourists.

The seminary is one of four possible prison sites recommended by Gov. William Milliken to ease overcrowding in state facilities.

Lenient Drunk Law Faces More Delay

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A law to decriminalize public intoxication and provide treatment for drunks appears likely to be target of more delaying tactics.

A Senate committee Wednesday voted to push back the effective date of the problem-plagued law until next April as it approved a bill which also revises the statute extensively.

The Judiciary Committee okayed a second bill permitting continued arrests of drunks who are endangering people or property.

The decriminalization law, passed in 1974, was slated to take effect last January. But problems in implementation delayed it until Oct. 1.

Reluctance of counties to set up operations to provide medical treatment for drunks have required another delay. But the April deadline may not be accepted by the House, which voted only a two-month extension to Dec. 1.

The Judiciary Committee, on a 4-0 vote, approved a bill extensively revising the law and delaying its effective date. But members indicated they still are not satisfied with the law's new form and may continue rewriting it.

The bill goes to the Senate, where it is sure to attract further amendments. But it must make it to the governor's desk by next week if the 1974 law is not to take effect a week from Saturday.

Meanwhile, the state Office of Substance Abuse Services is struggling with counties and local agencies to set up operations to deal with persons requiring medical treatment.

As originally enacted, the law decriminalized public intoxication and provided that police take harmless drunks home or to hospitals for medical treatment.

But critics said the law provided no protective custody, leaving a police officer powerless if a drunk refused to be taken home or consented to treatment. There were other problems as well.

Under the two bills approved by the Judiciary Committee:

—Public intoxication would no longer be a crime.
—The "harmless drunk" would not be dealt with, although police could continue to take him home if the drunk consented.
—Medical aid would be limited to persons incapacitated by alcohol to the point that they're a danger to themselves or others.

—Police could take such a person into protective custody, against his will, to protect him and others.

—He then would be taken to a licensed alcohol treatment program center or a hospital for medical help. A person could be held in a jail for up to eight hours if there was no facility available in the county and there was no transportation available to another county.

—At the treatment center or hospital, the person would be examined within eight hours of arrival. If no longer incapacitated, he would be released. Otherwise, he could be kept up to 72 hours. After that, he could remain for further treatment if he wished, or would be released.

—A person could be arrested and charged with a misdemeanor as a disorderly person if he were drunk and endangering the safety of others or property.

'Stop, Or I'll Shoot!' Is Fair Enough Warning

Be sure to work only when well disguised, keep in training so you can run fast, operate only within the city limits of Benton Harbor, and you can carve out a splendid career as a burglar.

Possibly one other bit of advice to follow: When you flee a policeman, be sure to have a big sign on your back saying "I'm only a burglar, not a killer."

You can make a good profit and live to a ripe old age.

As ridiculous as this may sound, it's a real possibility under a Benton Harbor police department policy that has become the center of a public controversy during the past several days.

The policy says that an officer may fire his gun only at a known felon who used or is attempting to use deadly force in the commission of a crime when all other attempts to prevent escape have failed, according to Police Chief Andrew Rodez.

Last week Chief Rodez suspended Patrolman Lloyd Hughes 15 days for firing a shot at a fleeing burglary suspect. A man was arrested in the case when he came to Mercy hospital four hours later for treatment of a wounded hand.

Capt. Harold Harris of the Benton Harbor department said the suspension, with loss of pay, was for violation of general orders of the department regarding use of firearms. Harris said burglary is not considered a violent felony and guns should not be fired in attempting to apprehend a suspect.

"Bunk!" said the Berrien County Deputies Association in a public statement on the case yesterday. The association, which represents the 74 Berrien sheriff's deputies, said that suspended Patrolman Hughes perhaps should be commended instead of suspended.

The deputies' statement, sent to the Benton Harbor mayor and city manager, questioned whether the rule against shooting at a fleeing burglary suspect is a proper one. "How much does its existence affect your officers' impact on crime in the city?" the deputies asked. The statement contends that every time a policeman elects to use his gun, he bases the decision on experience and training.

"To cloud the situation with extra-legal dictates which hamstring his use of discretion significantly curtails the enforcement capabilities of the officer, and the department as a whole."

Of the rule for which Hughes was suspended, the deputies' statement says: "The regulation cited in this instance infers that breaking and entering is not a threat to human life. Bunk! Every home invasion carries the potential threat of homicide."

True, indeed! And so is it true that burglary rampant can kill whole cities as the lawful flee the lawless.

No one argues that itchy-fingered officers should go around shooting it up like cops and robbers. Only well-trained and well-screened officers should carry firearms. Even with good men and good training, there will be an occasional mistake—a time in the dark of night when a youngster or totally innocent person will get hit. The risk has to be accepted to prevent far more tragedies being wrought on innocent citizens by criminals running wild.

There is no reason at law why the Benton Harbor police department has to have the policy of never shooting at burglary suspects. In fact, the policy runs counter to what the nation's courts generally hold the law to be.

A police officer is given great power to make an arrest, including the use of force to keep an arrested person from escaping. This includes shooting a felony suspect (burglary is a felony) who tries to flee, so long as the officer has exhausted all other means of capture, has given proper warning and then does not fire his weapon viciously or excessively.

This is a reasonable rule of law that should be maintained. Criminals should not be better protected than their victims.

The time-honored warning of the law officer—"Stop, or I'll shoot!"—should be preserved, respected and obeyed. In Benton Harbor or anywhere else!

Gifted Dropouts Are Special Problem

Much has been written about the intellectually handicapped child who eventually becomes a high school dropout, embittered about an educational process he never really understood — or which never understood him. Numerous federal programs have been adopted over the years to provide special attention for his particular problems.

But what about the intellectually gifted child? It may surprise many persons to learn that close to 100,000 students with an IQ superior to the national norm leave school before graduation each year, not necessarily embittered but definitely bored by it all.

Except for individual educators who recognize the scope of the problem and attempt to do something on their own, little official cognizance is made of the gifted dropout.

One study of Pennsylvania dropouts with IQs ranking in the upper 25 per cent found the typical male to be "significantly more assertive, independent, self-assured, rebellious, competitive, cheerful, expressive, frank, happy-go-lucky and talkative" than his classmates who stayed in school.

So little attention has been directed to this group it is not known what becomes of them after they leave school. Perhaps because of their superior capabilities many are able to overcome their shortcomings in formal training.

But don't bet on it. The burden of an incomplete high school education today is a heavy one to carry into the business world. That many thousands of talented youths are doing it every year is a waste of human resources.

HE SAYS BLACKS OPPOSE BUSING

Editor,

In your story about the National Association For Neighborhood Schools, Inc. in which I was interviewed (Aug. 31, '77), I was asked if we have black members. We discussed black attitudes toward busing far beyond what was alluded to in the story: "we are not racist." In fact, presented as that story was, it appears as though I felt a need to defend our organization from charges of racism which I do not.

Allow me now to provide some opinions on busing as held by respected and informed black leaders and not those selected by our national media as spokesmen for the entire black community.

Mr. Bill Moss, black candidate for the Columbus School Board (another American city under siege) calls forced busing "race manipulation" and, "Like Vietnam, it is ripping the nation apart... No government should force us onto buses to be shuffled around like pawns on a giant chess board."

Tony Brown, moderator of "The Black Journal" (PBS) says "Whites who oppose busing must lose their fear of being called racists."

Thomas Sowell, black economist at Stanford said, "Busing is not a policy, but a crusade. The last thing a crusader wants to hear is cost-benefit analysis."

Walter Robinson, co-spokesman for the Black Silent Majority, said "We (blacks) want quality education and we get forced busing."

William Raspberry, black syndicated columnist, says among other strongly anti-busing statements that "Forced busing is the use of busloads of black children to punish white people for sins they don't remember committing."

Arnold Pinkney, black president of the Cleveland School Board said he would likely enroll his daughter in a private school and that federal Judge Battisti is promoting "busing at any cost."

A 1976 Harris Poll showed 51 percent of the black community opposed to forced busing and, more importantly, only 38 percent favoring it. "Racist" is the magic word in this nation which has allowed all manner of insanity to flourish where it otherwise would have long ago been put to rest. It is important to remember that insane, unfounded charges of racism or attempts by the national media to tie in racism (KKK) or radicals into the legitimate anti-busing movement is but an attempt to discredit our efforts by guilt through association. We recognize the panic this displays on behalf of the promoters. The exact same panic as felt by a drowning man!

We urge your readers to join with this growing national effort. Write NANS, P.O. Box 212, Warren Michigan 48090.

THERE'S NO LEGITIMATE REASON

Editor,

I too would like to voice my disagreement with your policy of referring to married women as Mrs. John (Mary) Doe. Your lack of recognition of a married woman's separate identity is also shown by the way you report property transfers (John Doe and wife to Bob Smith and wife) and by your birth announcements (a girl born to Mr. and Mrs. John Doe).

Such backward references to women should have been abolished long ago. I can conceive of no legitimate reason for you to continue to refer to married women in such a demeaning fashion; to do so is to show your lack of concern for the rights of the individual. I feel you have a responsibility to your readers to address yourself to this issue at once!

Maybe It's The Humidity

WASHINGTON — Perhaps it's the humidity, which makes this city notoriously steamy and possibly warps rational thought processes. Whatever the cause, summertime seems to bring out the worst in Washington and its politicians.

The low point of the now-fading summer of 1977 undoubtedly was the spectacle of a "good government" president engaging in an embarrassing display of public affection for a bankrupt politician whose fiscal follies were disavowed by even the American Bankers Association, a group not previously known for its zealous concern about industry ethics.

Ranking right behind that show in terms of outlandish political behavior was the strange episode in which the House of Representatives feigned surprise upon "discovering" that the loathsome pussycats selected long ago as members of its Ethics Committee weren't fierce tigers in disguise.

The committee has a virtually unbroken record of ignoring or sweeping under the rug all potentially embarrassing cases. The panel was able to walk away from those cases because they didn't generate sufficient publicity or citizen indignation to force a full investigation.

Then along came Tongson Park, the Korean wheeler-dealer whose activities produced a wholesale threat to the reputations of dozens of present and former congressmen. After months of seething news stories, the committee reluctantly bestirred itself.

The 12-member committee is composed almost exclusively of men who continue to support the discredited philosophy of "to get along you've got to go along" as the key to survival and success in the House.

Its leader is Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Ga., 62, a veteran of 22 years in the House and representative of a district which fans out south and west of Atlanta.

It was Flynt who lost control of the Korean probe after his specially appointed chief investigator resigned in protest over the committee's foot-dragging. It was Flynt who publicly proclaimed that the committee would actively pursue its probe throughout the summer, then went off on a European junket.

Flynt's unusual dalliance with the Ford Motor Co. is well known in Georgia, where it was a major campaign issue in 1974, but the story deserves recounting.

Ford operates an assembly plant in Marietta, a suburb just south of Atlanta. In the summer of 1972, that facility was burdened with 3,000 excess Torinos which had to be temporarily withheld from the market for additional emission control testing.

The way Flynt tells it, Ford officials went up in an airplane to scout around for a suitable storage field and, without even knowing the identity of the owner, selected the congressman's 600-acre farm as an ideal location.

Ford stored its cars on Flynt's farm for five weeks and paid him two months' rent totaling $12,500. Slightly more than a year later, Ford and the nation's other major auto makers were on Capitol Hill to seek one of the numerous delays in implementation of tough federal emission control standards. Flynt voted for the postponement.

That information was turned up by Flynt's Republican opponent in 1974 and 1976, a college professor named Newt Gingrich who also discovered that Joe Akin, carried on Flynt's congressional payroll at an annual salary of $10,500, was manager of Flynt's farm.

It was following those disclosures that Flynt was elevated to the post which makes him the House's paradigm of ethical standards — and his colleagues pretend to be startled when they discover that Flynt and his fellow committee members aren't very enthusiastic about pursuing the Korean bribery investigation.

Meet Pablo The Economist

SANTIAGO, Chile — Probably the most interesting man in Chile today is Pablo Barahona, Minister of the Economy. We meet for lunch at the Union Club.

Santiago is full of ironic symbols, and the Union Club is one of them. It radiates conservatism. It has ancient elevators, marble columns, 30-foot high ceilings, upholstery. But across the Avenida Bernardo O'Higgins outside, the University of Chile glowers at the club. During the Allende days, mobs of students would flow across the Avenida to hurl rocks and obscenities at the Union club and its conservative mercantile clientele.

In a sense, this is a symbol of what is going on in Chile. The Union Club, the University, the cathedral up the street, the Congress, the court — all of these traditional institutions have been at loggerheads. Today, a military band is playing on the steps of the Congress building, in which, of course, the Congress is not meeting.

Pablo Barahona, a couple of Chilean friends and I have lunch in a private dining room at the club. It soon becomes clear that President Pinochet and the military are keeping public order while Pablo pursues his economic policies with virtually a free hand. Pinochet is being Barahona has the economic answers, and that in due course the devastation of the Allende years will be corrected, stability and prosperity return.

Pablo Barahona is about 40, trained in economics at the University of Chicago. In a sense, Pablo is what the argument about Chile is all about. Pablo is a free-market economist, and a monetarist. He argues forcefully that successive Chilean governments moved ever more deeply into the economy, distorting it. Enterprises that were not competitive were protected, kept going for political reasons. High tariffs, subsidies, protected those inefficient enterprises.

Under Pablo's direction, the Chilean economy is taking what might be called a cold shower. The tariff barriers have come down; foreign imports are snarling. This means enterprises that cannot hold their own competitively will be forced to the wall. Pablo knows that there will be bankruptcies, and very serious problems of readjustment. But he considers that in the long run, the Chilean economy will correct the distortions brought about by politicization. What the military regime is doing is providing a shield behind which this process can go forward.

Not surprisingly, Pablo and his policies have their critics. By the way, critical comment in Santiago is free and vociferous. Arguments about Pablo's policies go on into the small hours of the morning. Marxists, Christian Democrats, Socialists of all kinds, hold forth in an unbridled way.

Pablo's critics almost universally respect him personally, but consider him too "rigid." I spoke with a dairy farmer, for example. During the Allende years, much of the Chilean cattle population was butchered for meat. What is required now is re-investment in the herds. But Pablo has slashed the tariff on imported milk, to the detriment of the local dairy industry. Five years from now Pablo's free-market philosophy would make sense, this dairy man tells me, but not today because of the special weakness of the Chilean dairy industry.

And so the debate rages here. But Pablo is imperturbable, courageous. He has set his course, and he means to pursue it. And he clearly has the confidence of the Pinochet government.

Members of the St. Joseph Downtown Development authority yesterday agreed that a proposed State street improvement project should be designed so traffic will run one-way north with 45-degree angle parking spaces on one side.

The street is to run one-way north from Elm to Ship street. The angle parking spaces will be on the west side of the street from Elm to Broad and will be on the east side from Broad to Ship.

The agreement came in the form of a vote of approval for "concept design" sketches which showed the street running north and the general location of the angle parking spaces.

Present southbound traffic on State street would be diverted to either Lake boulevard or Main street.

Steven A. Reed, director of the DDA, recommended that Lake boulevard be made one-way south from Port to Elm street to accommodate an additional 30 to 40 angle parking spaces on Lake. Lake would resume two-way south of Elm.

DDA members said they would take no action on that proposal until city officials could study it and make recommendations.

The project must win city commission approval before traffic could be rerouted or construction could begin.

Approval of the sketches had been sought by Barton-Aschman & Associates, Evanston, Ill. The firm holds a $13,000 contract to prepare a preliminary design for the project.

Agreement on which direction the street will run and several other basic design concepts was needed by the firm before further design work could progress.

Reed used the sketches to outline project details to DDA members and some 15 people who attended the meeting.

The project is aimed at enhancing shopping conditions in the downtown area by creating a semi-mall atmosphere with wider sidewalks, trees, benches and improved street lighting.

The project also calls for giving storefronts a facelift. Designs will be prepared to remodel each storefront facade. Reed said each block will have about 18 or 19 angle parking spaces. That will accommodate almost the same number of cars as can presently be parked parallel on both sides of the street, he said.

The angle parking will enable the street to be narrowed from 45 to 32 feet. The sidewalks would be widened, particularly at intersections, and trees would be planted along their outer edge.

The sketches showed new, smaller street light fixtures that would shine through tree branches.

Reed said planners had determined that the existing highway-type light fixtures on State street were too powerful and harsh.

Authority members also voted to instruct the design firm to prepare plans for a seasonal mall that would involve closing Pleasant street to traffic in the warm months. Trees, shrubbery, benches, kiosks and other amenities could be moved into the street to enhance pedestrian traffic.

The area could be used for outdoor programs and promotions, Reed said.

Planning for the seasonal mall could result in an additional cost of up to $1,500, Reed said. However, he said he felt most of it could be paid for from contingency money in the $13,000 price tag.

Reed also recommended that Ship street between State and Main be made one-way going east to accommodate angle parking on the south side of Ship. And, he recommended that a traffic light be installed at the intersection of Main and Ship.

Action on those proposals, as well as the one to make Lake boulevard one-way south, was deferred until city officials can study them and make recommendations.

Members of the authority have said they hope to see construction on the improvement project begin next summer. Financing would be shared by the city and property owners within the development district.

Taylor said.

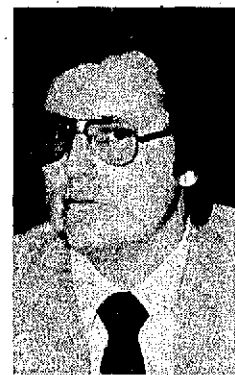

Dederick has been associated with Northern Trust since 1964, and was appointed senior vice president and economist in 1970. He is a Fellow and past president of the National Association of Business Economists and is associate editor of "Business Economics," the association journal.

He received his A.B. (Phi Beta Kappa) and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard university, and has taught at Harvard, Cornell and Boston universities.

Economic club Executive Secretary John Runyan said mail reservations are now being accepted for the meeting and that phone reservations also will be accepted from members beginning Monday, Sept. 26, through Thursday noon, Sept. 29.

Legionnaires May Act On Canal Treaty Here

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Petitions opposing the Panama Canal treaty will be circulated by members of Benton Harbor American Legion Post 105 at the fall leadership conference of the Michigan American Legion held in the Twin Cities this weekend.

Hosted by Benton Harbor Post 105, the three-day conference will get underway tomorrow with committee meetings at the Benton Harbor and St. Joseph Holiday Inns.

The conference is expected to draw some 2,000 American Legion members and their spouses from across the state, according to Dan Plough, Benton Harbor Post 105 commander.

Plough said the Benton Harbor post will have individual petitions available for Legion members to sign in opposition to the Panama Canal treaty. The Benton Harbor post will pay for mailing each signed petition separately to U.S. senators and congressmen. The treaty has been signed by President Jimmy Carter. Implementation of the treaty will require a two-thirds vote of ratification by the U.S. Senate.

State American Legion committees will meet throughout the day Friday followed by a joint session at 7 p.m. Friday. Keynote speaker at the joint session will be J. Ray Edmundson, Virginia American Legion commander.

Also expected to attend the Friday night session at the St. Joseph Holiday Inn are Vernon Henriels, newly-elected commander of the Michigan American Legion, and Benton Harbor Mayor Joel Patterson and St. Joseph Mayor Franklin Smith.

The three-day conference enables newly-elected Legion officers to become briefed on their official duties, Plough said.

Plough said the Legionnaires may also discuss national issues at the Friday night session including the Panama Canal treaty, the B-1 bomber, and construction of Project Seafarer in the Upper Peninsula. The national organization has adopted positions opposing the canal treaty and favoring the B-1 bomber and Project Seafarer, Plough said.

Social functions during the conference will include a steak fry and corn roast sponsored by Benton Harbor Post 105 at 7 p.m. Saturday. U.S. Rep. David Stockman (R-St. Joseph) is scheduled to attend the steak fry, Plough said.

Robbery, Fire Report

Benton township police today were continuing their investigation of the Wednesday morning robbery of a woman who reported her home was set on fire by the bandits.

Police said Juanita Fields, 52, of 406 Hilltop road, was found by neighbors at 4:20 a.m. after she escaped from her burning home.

The woman reported two men tied her up and set fire to two bedrooms of the house before escaping with at least $200 cash, according to officers.

Although bound, she managed to crawl out of the house, according to Det. Robert Shepherdson.

Benton township firefighters said an estimated $3,000 damage was caused by the fire which they extinguished.

Juanita Fields was reported treated at Memorial hospital and released for injuries sustained in a struggle while she was being bound.

Balloon Discovered

HARTFORD — A balloon carrying propaganda apparently from a Chicago-area political group came down in an orchard at the Dennis Sommerfeldt farm near here Tuesday.

The black, helium-filled balloon had a white skull and crossbones painted on it. It carried a shopping bag with a crudely drawn swastika, the words, "White Power!" and a telephone number, according to the Sommerfeldts.

The telephone number was for a recorded message of the National Socialist White Peoples' party. The neo-Nazi group has been involved in conflicts over proposed marches in Skokie, Ill., a predominantly Jewish Chicago suburb.

Mr. and Mrs. Sommerfeldt and four Hartford high school students saw the balloon land in the orchard about 6:30 p.m. The students, Scott Anderson, Mickey Williams, Russell Chernugel and David Kling, were working on a float for the high school Homecoming parade. The farm is located at route 2, 67th street.

Man's Bond $50,000 In Benton Case

Arthur L. Cannon Jr. of Benton township was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond yesterday after his arraignment in Berrien Fifth District court on two counts of assault with intent to commit murder and one count of torturing a child. Cannon is accused of assaulting his estranged wife, Eva, with the wooden handle of a garden hoe Tuesday night at her residence, 226 Butternut street, Benton township.

He also is accused of one count of assault with intent to commit murder against Marvin Heard, 2, his wife's son, and one count of torturing the boy.

The charge of assault with intent to commit murder stems from a threat to kill the boy and the charge of torture stems from holding the boy's head against the boy's neck, according to Benton township police.

Cannon, 25, of 2021 Territorial road, demanded preliminary examination on the charges and was jailed after bond was set by Judge Ronald J. Taylor.

Township Police Chief Joe Slesher gave this account of the arrest:

Cannon was arrested about 11:45 p.m. after Patrolmen Jim Windsor, Harvey Beller and Scott Long kicked open the locked door of the Butternut residence. They had been dispatched to the address after a telephone operator received an anonymous tip.

When the door flew open, Mrs. Cannon ran from the house screaming that she had just been beaten.

The officers entered the house and used chemical spray to subdue Cannon after an alleged threat against the boy and choking with the hoe handle.

Is Traffic Light Favor To Senator?

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — The state will install a $10,000 traffic signal adjacent to a shopping center owned by a state senator who denies the installation is a personal favor.

Local officials and experts at the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation disagree on whether the signal is needed.

Sen. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, requested the signal recently after he had a minor auto accident when he ran into a motorcycle pulling out of the Clinton Commons Shopping Center in Clinton Township.

The complex houses three retail outlets, four Clinton Township offices and Guastello's law office.

Township Police Inspector Larry Moore said he did not feel the intersection presented a serious traffic hazard.

Employees of the highway department, which has jurisdiction because one of the roads at the intersection is state-maintained, were reluctant to discuss the approval. One refused comment because he said he "did not want to get in trouble."

Guastello, whose district does not include the site, admits he requested the traffic light, but denies pressuring state officials to approve and install it. The installation will be completed by the end of the year, state officials said.

The senator said many motorists and area residents complained to him about the traffic situation near the shopping center, but said he could identify only one complainant by name.

Keith Bushnell, a systems and service engineer, said legislators often request signals or sometimes apply pressure to get them approved. He would not say if Guastello applied such pressure.

Berrien GOP To Hear Panel On Jail, Penal Code Tuesday

William Kime, deputy director of the Michigan Department of Corrections, and Berrien District Court Judge John Hammond will lead a panel discussion Tuesday at a meeting of the Berrien County Republican committee. Jail conditions in Berrien county and the impact of a new Michigan penal code will be the topics of the 8 p.m. meeting at the Youth Memorial building in Berrien Springs. Kime, who holds a master's degree in philosophy from the University of Michigan, became deputy director of the Michigan corrections department in January, 1969. The public is invited, according to Carol Stockman, chairman of the county Republican committee.

Troopers Still Seeking Source Of Pair's Money

State police at the Benton Harbor post said last night an investigation was continuing in an effort to find out where two California men obtained the $30,770 in cash seized when they were arrested on 194 early Wednesday.

A loaded .45-caliber pistol, a half ounce of suspected cocaine and an open bottle of brandy were also confiscated in the 2:20 a.m. traffic stop which was made after an auto was seen swerving across the highway.

Both men were jailed in lieu of $100,000 bonds after arraignment in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on felony charges stemming from their arrests.

The driver of the car, Paz M. Barraza, 27, of Watsonville, Cal., demanded a preliminary examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in a motor vehicle.

Barraza was also sentenced to 30 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Luis Z. Canache, 38, of Castroville, Cal., demanded a preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of cocaine. The bonds and sentence were set by Judge Ronald J. Taylor.

Two Grants For Area

State Senator Charles O. Zollar (R), 22nd District, of Benton Harbor, has announced two grants in the Benton Harbor area from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

These funds, which are being matched locally, include $7,250 to the Benton Harbor Area Park and Recreation board, and $6,100 to the Cathedral School of the Arts.

The grant to the Benton Harbor Area Park and Recreation Board will be used for a series of art workshops and classes for members of the Benton Harbor community. Activities include Children's Theatre Workshop, Community Theatre Workshop, Urban Visual Arts programs, including open air and indoor craft sessions, Easy Easels, Clays, Clays and more Clays, and Senior Arts, Community Summer Dance Workshop.

The grant to the Cathedral School of the Arts will be used to continue the arts program and individualized music instruction for 44 young people who might not otherwise receive instruction.

Grants in this category are available to non-profit organizations throughout the state who wish to sponsor arts activities. Awarded on a one-time basis, these matching grants provide financial assistance to arts programs which respond to cultural needs in a community or geographic area.

Funds to support these projects are part of an ongoing community arts program sponsored by the Michigan Council for the Arts, a state agency which derives its financial support from the State Legislature, the National Endowment for the Arts and private contributions.

The Michigan Council was established in 1966 and assists a wide variety of cultural programs and services sponsored by community organizations and other groups throughout the state.

Wedding

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Linda Sue Schinske and Gregory T. Rood exchanged wedding vows Sept. 11 at United Methodist church, Berrien Springs. The Rev. Dennis G. Buwalda performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Linton R. Schinske, route 2, Box 154, Berrien Springs. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore L. Rood, route 1, Box 381H, Berrien Springs.

The bride wore a sheer over taffeta empire gown trimmed with venise lace and designed with a chapel train. She wore a picture hat and carried daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Jack Baker was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Terry Black, sister of the groom, Miss Vicki Schinske, sister of the bride, and Miss Carol Ruppel.

Serving as best man was Jack Baker. Ushers were Terry Black, Robert Schinske, brother of the bride, and Jeff Ireland.

A reception was held at the church.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple is residing at 3105 Campus View Apartments, Allendale.

Apple Turnovers

One cup unsifted flour
One-half teaspoon salt
One-third cup margarine
One package (three-ounce) cream cheese
One and one-half cups chopped peeled apples
One-fourth cup sugar
One-fourth teaspoon ground cinnamon
Dash nutmeg
Confectioners' sugar
Measure flour and salt into a bowl. Cut in margarine and cream cheese with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix with hands until dough forms a ball. Chill one hour. On lightly floured board, roll chilled dough to twelve by sixteen-inch rectangle. Cut into twelve four-inch squares. Combine apples, sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg; mix well. Place one rounded teaspoonful of apple mixture in center of each square. Moisten two adjacent sides of each square and fold to form triangles; seal edges with tines of fork. Cut two small slits in top of each turnover.

Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 400 degrees about 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 12 turnovers.

Prevent Periodontal Deterioration

NEW YORK — Many dentists estimate that 80 per cent of American teens experience some periodontal deterioration, reports the September issue of "Seventeen" magazine.

Periodontitis, or gum disease, is caused by plaque, an invisible mass of bacteria in a mucous film which lives on nutrients supplied by the bloodstream.

Early symptoms — inflamed, soft and swollen gums that bleed easily during brushing and lingering bad breath — often start during preschool years.

Plaque progressively destroys the gums and underlying tissues and bones that hold teeth in their sockets, eventually leading to the loss of teeth.

The American Academy of Periodontology in Chicago recommends two steps to prevent the disease: brush the teeth and gum line thoroughly at least twice a day with a soft brush, and use floss or interdental stimulators daily.

'Antiques-On-The-Lake' Oct. 16

CIVIC BENEFIT PROJECT: Fourth annual "Antiques-On-The-Lake" show and sale will be held by Civic Benefit club Saturday, Oct. 15, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday, Sept. 16, from noon to 6 p.m. at Shadowland Ballroom in St. Joseph. Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $2 at the door. Participating will be 35 qualified dealers. In addition, there will be a country store selling homemade baked goods and a snack bar serving sandwiches, desserts and beverages. Among the purchase of approximately five acres of land. The land is contiguous to the present sanctuary and is located on the bluff of the Paw Paw River valley. The area includes orchard, wooded upland, swamp forest and two small ponds. Proceeds of $3,450 from the 1976 show were donated to the nature center which enabled the nature center to purchase building materials for a nature lab, lab table and pond study equipment.

FOURTH ANNUAL SHOW: Among chairmen for the fourth annual "Antiques-On-The-Lake" show and sale to be held Oct. 15 and 16 by Civic Benefit club are from left, Mrs. James (Marie) Straub, ticket chairman; Mrs. Michael (Connie) Yore, advisor on authenticity of antiques; Mrs. George (Betty) Jaffke, hostess chairman, and Mrs. Willis (Norma) Koontz, country kitchen. Other chairmen are Mrs. David (Carol) Siewert, finance; Mrs. Jerry (Jan) Reimann, art, and Mrs. Andrew (Mary) West, decorations. Proceeds from the show are earmarked for the purchase of five acres of land for Saret Nature Center, Benton Harbor. Future plans for the land include building a small interpretive building on the wooded portion which would be used by classes for day-long in-depth environmental studies. This would also allow the tours of Saret to begin at the far southern boundary of the sanctuary. School groups would disembark here and end their tour at the present nature center building. ## 'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Porn Column Hits Mark

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to thank you for the public service you rendered in the fight against child pornography. Because of your recent column on the subject, we received a number of calls and letters from citizens with information about individuals engaged in such activity.

Investigation of one such called led us to a highly placed professional person who, incredibly enough, works with young children. We learned that he has been engaging these youngsters in pornographic activity for quite some time and we are hopeful our investigation will end in a conviction.

By educating your readers to this reprehensible criminal activity and alerting them as to whom to contact you have performed a service of enormous magnitude. — Ilana Diamond Rovner, Chief, Public Protection Unit, United States Attorney, Northern District of Illinois

Dear Chief: Thank you for your kind words. I'm delighted to learn that the column was effective. Adult pornography is a bane. Anyone who enjoys such garbage as steady entertainment must have strayed in the middle. "Kid porn" is not just pornography. It's child abuse, and anyone involved in that summary racket should get the maximum. Good luck on the conviction.

C'mon, FCC

Dear Ann: You are probably fed up with letters from CB'ers but I hope you'll find room for one more.

"K.A.I.D. - 7777 North Carolina" should have appeared before he calls "Mad In Illinois" ignorant. Power or no power, sunspots or no sunspots, it's illegal to communicate more than 150 miles from your station. CB radios are not toys, but that's how the "skippers" use them when they take an egg trip to see how far away they can get to say nothing.

When you want to talk to someone locally and all you can hear is the same racket-mouth bellowing, "Have a fine day!" it's enough to ruin your day.

The problem of illegal hogs doesn't mean anything until you are stranded in a car with a CB at your fingertips and you can't get through to ask for help because the "skippers" have all the channels tied up — including the emergency. And how sweet it is to be watching TV and all of a sudden some "Good Buddy" turns up the power so high it knocks out your picture and the sound goes dead — but you can hear him loud and clear — calling Canada.

Ask the FCC why they aren't doing their job of enforcing the laws, especially when the "skippers" are kind enough to give their addresses over the

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am now in my 80th year and except for some prostate trouble I am in fairly good health.

Last year I started having to get up at night and have to relieve myself more often during the day. Whenever I rise from the sitting position I have to go. In addition, the starting of the flow is difficult and I do not empty completely so that after a few minutes I am compelled to relieve myself again. I saw my urologist and after a complete examination including a cystoscopy the only remark he made was to see him in six months or sooner if necessary.

Now, Dr. Lamb, I have a few questions. Can a malignancy be involved? I realize that the enlarged prostate diminishes the lumen of the urethra so that there is difficulty in starting the flow, but why do I get another urge a minute or two later?

Although the urologist has not suggested it, is there any reason why a prostatectomy is indicated at this time?

Do you think the urologist is waiting for me to close up before he operates? Is this the usual procedure in similar cases?

If there is no malignancy at present, can a malignancy be precipitated by operating?

DEAR READER — Just because a man has an enlarged prostate or an obstructed flow from the prostate does not mean a malignancy is present. A prostate gland may have an acute infection, a chronic infection, become enlarged or develop a malignancy. To give you more information on it I am sending you the Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10015. The older a man gets the more likely he is to have nests of cancer cells in the prostate. The later these occur the less likely they are to grow rapidly or spread. A man may live out his life span and never have any trouble from such cells. A number of these are diagnosed only by examination after death, or found only during a prostate operation. Frequent examinations by your doctor will detect any lump or nodule that might signal a change and still give the doctor time to provide an actual cure of the cancer. The cancer growth should be detected as early as possible. That is the reason for repeated examinations.

The enlarged prostate prevents complete emptying of the bladder and because it is distended it is constantly sending out signals through your nervous system that you need to empty it. That is the basic reason for the frequent need to relieve yourself. Your doctor knows just how much residual urine is in your bladder from your tests. Apparently he doesn't think it is enough to justify surgery in your case at this time.

If there is a malignancy involved it must be a small nest of cells in the prostate and probably has nothing to do with your obstructive symptoms or your doctor would have advised surgery.

Whether or not you need a prostate operation depends upon how much obstruction you have. Doctors usually do not wait until the opening is completely closed. Surgery will not cause a malignancy but if there are any small nests of cells that cannot be felt by finger examination these might then be found.

(Dr. Lamb answers representative letters of general interest in this column.)

South was very disappointed when North dropped him at two notrump, but was delighted when he was the dummy. The game was match-point duplicate and it looked as if spade declarers would have to lose two hearts, a ruff, the ace of spades and king of clubs to wind up with just eight tricks and South could see eight tricks at notrump unless East held a six-card heart suit.

East allowed dummy's eight of hearts to hold the first trick. The seven of spades was led to the king. West ducked! West also played low on the second spade. If South had been looking at all the cards he would have played nine, but he did play the jack. East dropped the nine of clubs and South saw he would have to abandon the spade suit and look for some other way to find eight tricks.

It wasn't hard for him. He just cashed the diamonds to get to six tricks; threw East in with a heart and waited.

East cashed four hearts and had to lead a club. South rose with his queen and had his eighth trick and a top score.

Note that this play would not have succeeded if East had cashed ace-king of hearts and led a third heart to start the defense.

He plays low. What do we play with: ♠ K x ♥ Q x x ♦ x x x ♣ x x x x?

We play the king of spades and lead the suit back. If partner holds five spades and an entry we will beat the contract.

Cutbacks In Medicaid Looming

By WARREN E. LEARY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government will withhold $241 million in Medicaid funds from 22 states on Oct. 1 unless Congress intervenes, says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW officials said Wednesday the department would prefer not to withhold the money, but is obligated by law to reduce the amount of federal matching funds to states that failed to review annually each nursing home serving Medicaid recipients.

Congress passed emergency legislation last July to forestall cutoffs to 20 states until after Sept. 30, hoping by then to change the law under which HEW acted.

With the deadline a little more than a week away, the House is scheduled to take up some of the proposed changes Thursday and companion measures are pending in the Senate Finance Com-

Non-Reader Sues School District

SEATTLE (AP) — A 21-year-old man and his parents are suing Seattle's school district on grounds he was graduated from high school without learning to read.

Frank Fisher said his son, Richard, "can't read an application to get a job."

The Fishers claim Richard should be given remedial education at the school district's expense. The suit filed earlier this month in King County Superior Court seeks unspecified damages.

The mother, Mary, said Wednesday she did not know how it was possible for the school district to award her son a diploma "because we used to help him with his homework and we knew how he struggled."

The Fishers charge that their son, who was graduated in 1974 from Lincoln High School, is "completely unable to read with sufficient comprehension to obtain employment or to adequately cope with the demands of our society."

Fisher said his son also has been turned down by the Army, Navy and Air Force because he couldn't read.

Fisher said his son was placed in special-education classes early because teachers said he was a poor learner.

Gary M. Little, general counsel for the school district, said recently that in similar cases in New York, San Francisco and Pennsylvania, courts have held the duty to educate is a collective one and have ruled in favor of the school districts.

Nationwide Poll Shows Public Against Canal Pact

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Panama Canal treaty, backed strongly by President Carter, has a center of controversy in the Senate, is opposed overwhelmingly by the American people, according to a nationwide Associated Press public opinion poll.

The survey found 50 per cent of adults questioned oppose the treaty, under which the United States would relinquish control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000. Twenty-nine per cent favored the pact, and 21 per cent were undecided.

While opposition cut across regional, party, educational, age and income lines, the treaty was least popular among persons over 60. Only 20 per cent of the persons in that age group backed the treaty, while 53 per cent were opposed and 27 per cent had no opinion.

One of the strongest shows of support came from persons in the 18-to-29 age group, where 35 per cent approved compared with 47 per cent against and 17 per cent undecided.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee opens hearings next week on the canal treaty, which President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos signed in Washington on Sept. 7 amid a ceremonial show of enthusiasm by hemisphere leaders.

There actually are two treaties, but they are considered indivisible. One calls for the United States to relinquish sovereignty over the Canal Zone to Panama by the year 2000. The other would always permit the United States to militarily ensure the neutrality of the canal.

The AP poll, with findings similar to those of other recent surveys, showed Carter's efforts have failed to win support for the treaty within his own party and among residents of his native South.

But with the ratification vote not scheduled until next year, Carter has several months to gain sympathy for the agreement. He has said he thinks public sentiment is turning in favor of the canal treaty, and is banking on a national "education" effort to help win the two-thirds vote needed for Senate approval.

The poll, based on telephone interviews with 1,548 adults, was conducted Monday for The AP by Chilton Research Services of Haddon, Pa. Democrats opposed the treaty by 44 per cent to 34 per cent, but Republicans polled were against it by 61 to 26 per cent, and independents by 54 to 25.

Regionally, support was strongest in the East, where 34 per cent favored ratification, 48 per cent opposed it and 18 per cent had no opinion. In the South, 49 per cent were opposed, 26 per cent in favor and 25 per cent undecided.

In both the Midwest and West, 52 per cent opposed the treaty. In the Midwest 28 per cent favored it and 20 per cent were undecided. In the West supporters accounted for 29 per cent with 18 per cent undecided.

Some 36 per cent of persons earning over $25,000 a year backed the treaty, the most in any income group. There were no other major variations in attitudes among income groups.

The poll divided persons surveyed into 31 subgroups, of which only four favored the treaties or split evenly.

Black adults narrowly approved, as did members of other non-white races, but numbers involved were too small to draw significant conclusions.

Adults with at least a college degree split roughly on the question, as did those who said Carter was doing an excellent job as President.

An NBC poll Aug. 2-3 asked if the United States should sign a treaty eventually giving control of the Panama Canal to Panama. Of 1,000 adults interviewed, 45 per cent said no, 27 per cent said yes, and 18 per cent had no opinion.

In a national sample Aug. 19-22, the Gallup Organization found 76 per cent were familiar with the treaty. Of those, 46 per cent disapproved, 39 per cent approved and 15 per cent had no opinion.

Accurate comparisons of these polls with AP's are difficult due to differences in the wording of questions and methods of choosing and interviewing subjects.

Figures in the AP poll represent exact results from the survey. As with any such poll, using results to make assumptions about the opinions of all Americans is open to possible statistical variations.

In the 1,548 interviews, it is 95 per cent certain that the error due solely to variations in the sample is no more than 2.5 per cent.

For smaller groups within the sample, such as Democrats or Republicans, the theoretically possible sampling error could be higher, the exact range of possible error depending on actual numbers involved.

Ex-Hartfordite Slain In Jail, Texans Report

By STEVE McQUOWN
Assistant State Editor

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — A former Hartford man being held on a murder charge here was murdered in his jail cell last Saturday, according to the Bexar county sheriff's office.

Hugo Saenz, 21, allegedly was strangled and then his body hanged to make it appear as if he had committed suicide, according to the sheriff's chief deputy, Rudy Garza.

Garza said five men, ranging in ages from 48 to 25, have been arrested on charges of murder. He said the five were cellmates of Saenz. He said no motive for the murder has been determined.

He said guards discovered the body of Saenz hanging from a cell structure about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. A medical examiner subsequently ruled the former Hartford man had been dead before a twisted mattress cover was put around his neck and his body hanged from the cell structure.

Garza said Saenz had been held at the county jail since July 25 on a charge of murder in connection with the July 19 shooting death of a 30-year-old woman in a city housing project.

He had been arrested at Alamo, Texas, a town about 150 miles from San Antonio, and returned to San Antonio on a warrant charging him with murder, according to the San Antonio police department.

Saenz was the second former Van Buren county man to die in Texas last Saturday.

Michael Purdy, 26, a former Decatur man, was shot to death along I-10 near Houston when a truck driver discovered a man sneaking through the truck's cab, according to authorities there.

Saenz was a migrant worker who settled with his family in southwest Michigan in 1965. Hartford school officials said he attended Hartford high school in 1971.

A family spokesman said he returned to Texas in January or February of this year.

Mr. Saenz was born Aug. 28, 1956, in Edinburg, Texas.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mary Saenz, Hartford; nine brothers, Eddie, Alamo, Texas; Felix, Berrien Springs, Leon and Lizzandra, both of Hartford, La. Baltimore, Md.; Angel, Dade City, Fla.; Robert, Norman and Lee, all of Hartford; four sisters, Mrs. Ernest (Olga) Torres and Mrs. Tony (Yolanda) Cerda, both of Houston, Texas; Mrs. Julio (Norma) Hernandez, Dade City and Miss Elizabeth Saenz, Hartford; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Refugio Tamez, Texas.

The Rosary was recited at 1 p.m. today in the Calvin funeral home, Hartford. A funeral mass will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. Friday in Hartford Immaculate Conception church. Burial will be in Maple Hill cemetery.

Injures Five

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five persons were hospitalized — two of them in critical condition — after an explosion and fire leveled a two-story building on Fisherman's Wharf.

Thousands of tourists watched as two Coast Guard cutters and three smaller boats aided firemen in a 1½-hour battle to control flames after the blast rocked the wharf late Wednesday morning.

Damage was estimated at $60,000.

Paul Girard of Pacific Gas & Electric Co. said workers were servicing a four-inch, high-pressure gas main at the time but there was no immediate indication of what caused the explosion.

The critically injured men were PG&E workmen.

Man Faces New Sexual Charges

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — A former elementary school principal who was charged and fined four years ago on charges he took indecent liberties with a student has pleaded innocent to two similar counts.

Arthur Kirby, 43, was arraigned Wednesday in 37th District Court on two charges of second-degree criminal sexual conduct. Judge Sherman Faince released him after Kirby posted $5,000 bond.

Kirby is accused of sexual activities with boys at a Warren bicycle shop, which Kirby co-owns. A pretrial hearing will be held within 12 days before Judge George Montgomery.

Kirby was suspended from his position as principal of an elementary school with the Warren Consolidated School District following the 1973 charge, to which he pleaded no contest. Kirby was fined $1,000 and put on four years' probation.

Court officials said because Kirby is still on probation, he could be sent to prison if convicted of the felony charges now pending against him.

A Sterling Heights couple is suing Kirby and the Warren Consolidated School District, charging he took liberties with their son in 1972 and 1973. The child is now 12 years old.

The $1.4 million suit has not been heard because of questions on the school's immunity to prosecution.

An attorney representing Kirby sought a suppression order Wednesday to prevent publicity in the case, but it apparently was not signed or served.

In another Macomb County sexual misconduct case, a judge on Wednesday suspended the trial of a former Warren teacher until the state appeals court rules on whether the trial can be closed to the public.

An appeals court clerk said a ruling was not expected before Friday.

Circuit Court Judge Edward Gallagher ordered the trial closed Tuesday at the request of attorneys for the defendant, Pamela Sue Kellar, 31, of Royal Oak.

Following the order, The Detroit Free Press petitioned the appeals court to open the trial to the public and media.

Mrs. Kellar faces two counts of criminal sexual conduct. She is charged with having sexual relations with a 12-year-old Warren boy, a former student of Mrs. Kellar's.

The woman was arrested last February, and was suspended from her job teaching fourth grade.

Gallagher said Wednesday he decided to suspend the trial after learning of the petition to the appeals court.

Carter Seeking Budget Director

two loans at separate banks and allegations that he used bank-owned aircraft for his personal and political travel.

In three days of testimony last week before the Senate committee, Lance said he might have made some mistakes but declared that his conscience was clear of any wrongdoing.

He said the same to Carter.

"It was, and is, important that my name and reputation be cleared, for me, my wife, my children, my grandchildren and those who have trust and faith in me. And I believe that this has been done," Lance wrote in his letter of resignation.

"As I said at the Senate hearings, my conscience is clear."

He added: "I am convinced that I can continue to be an effective director of the Office of Management and Budget. However, because of the amount of controversy and the continuing nature of it, I have decided to submit my resignation as director of OMB. I desire to return to my native state of Georgia."

As Carter read Lance's letter to reporters on national radio and television, he stumbled on the word "resignation."

An aide said the President was as close to tears as he has been since his wet-eyed victory statement the morning after his election last November.

"Bert Lance is my friend," Carter said.

"I know him personally as well as if he was my own brother."

Question after question at the news conference was about Lance.

Carter cast his eyes down from time to time, tightened his lips and responded to the questions, one by one.

After 34 minutes, he ended the news conference himself, without waiting for the senior news service correspondent to say, "Thank you, Mr. President."

The Democratic majority leader of the Senate, Robert C.

Byrd of West Virginia, a key weathervane in the Lance case, said: "The nation cannot afford to have as director of the Office of Management and Budget a man whose personal problems are so great that they detract from the performance of his duties."

From the Republican side, Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee, said: "I don't think President Carter will ever fully recover ... The damage has been done."

Lance had insisted that he would not consider resigning, that he would continue in his job at the OMB. As late as Tuesday night a Lance aide was still telling reporters that his boss was adamant about staying.

But there were indications all day Wednesday that the time had come for Bert Lance's departure. President Carter had scheduled his news conference for 3 p.m., but changed it to 5 p.m., at only an hour's notice, because Lance was completing his letter of resignation.

After a last meeting with Carter, Lance returned to his home in Washington's fashionable Georgetown district. Moments after Carter's news conference ended, Lance's wife, LaBelle, stepped out of the house and said:

"I didn't feel my husband had to resign. I still feel he could take anywhere. He's honest and good and I'm proud of him."

Carter blamed himself for some of Lance's financial problems.

"If there's any fault, it's mine because of the strict requirements we placed on him," specifically the requirement that Lance sell his bank stock, the President said.

Recalling his first word from Lance, after terms on Tuesday, that it would be best if he quit, Carter stated flatly: "I did not ask for Bert's resignation."

Would Carter have asked for the resignation if Lance had not volunteered it?

"That's hard to say," the President said.

Russian Roulette Victim

THOMPSONVILLE, Mich. (AP) — A 17-year-old Benzonia youth remained in serious condition today after a game of Russian roulette backfired, sending him to the hospital and three friends to jail. Benzonia County deputies said Bernard Roussain was hospitalized late Wednesday when a .38-caliber revolver involved in the dangerous game went off, wounding him in the head. A further investigation led to the arrest of two juveniles and one adult at the home, deputies said. They were believed to be involved in a string of burglaries in the Thompsonville area. Police said the gun used by Roussain was stolen.

Tests Due On Bailey

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Parole Board has ordered a medical evaluation for Rhode Island Rep.-elect William H. Bailey. Bailey is serving a 2-to-4-year sentence for a 1973 conviction of stealing 31 record albums from an Algonac, Mich., department store. The board ordered another parole hearing on Bailey for March 1978. Bailey, a Democrat, was elected to the Rhode Island General Assembly last November, but was denied a seat because of his criminal record. He was extradited to Michigan to serve his sentence here. The parole board ordered the medical report during a closed-door hearing Sept. 9. The results of that hearing were revealed Wednesday.

Linebacker's Home Burns

CORUNNA, Mich. (AP) — A blaze at the off-season home of New York Giants' star Brad Van Pelt is believed to be the work of an arsonist, authorities say. Van Pelt's home was heavily damaged as three house fires broke out in 2½ hours Wednesday afternoon, firemen reported. The state fire marshal's office was asked to investigate after local officials said they suspected all three fires may have been set. All three homes were in the same area outside Corunna in Shiawassee County. Firemen were able to save about two-thirds of the main portion of Van Pelt's home, but his insurance agent estimates damages at $35,000. The residence was being rented to a high school football coach from nearby Byron, who was not there when the fire started, authorities said. The fires at the other two dwellings also occurred while the occupants were away.

Today In MICHIGAN

Environmentalists Win

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A circuit court trial will begin by Oct. 10 on the issue of expanded gas and oil drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest, says the state Court of Appeals. In a victory for environmentalists, the appeals court Wednesday also banned any activity in preparation of drilling in the semi-wilderness area in northern Lower Michigan. The court had been asked by opponents of the drilling to block drilling pending the lower court trial. The circuit judge had denied the request to block drilling while the trial was held. The appeals court rejected opponents' requests that it take the case and block the drilling. But it noted that under an agreement between oil companies and the state, no drilling activity is permitted between Sept. 15 and Nov. 30 anyway. Its order that a trial begin by Oct. 10 is apparently intended to ensure the issue is decided by the time drilling is permitted again in December.

Breathalyzer Use Limited

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Breathalyzer test results may not be used to charge a defendant with any crime other than impaired or drunk driving, says the state Court of Appeals. The appeals court overturned the Oakland County Circuit Court manslaughter conviction of John Carter. It said Judge Frederick Ziem should not have admitted breathalyzer test results as evidence. Carter was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the 1975 death of Robert Kuehne, who was struck by a car. The appeals court sent the case back to circuit court for a new trial on other evidence. The court also ruled that machetes are banned under a law forbidding "stabbing weapons" from being carried in motor vehicles, and upheld damages awarded a woman whose daughter died from carbon monoxide given off by charcoal briquettes. The woman had used the charcoal to heat a room, resulting in the death of one daughter and illness of another.

Searchers Seek Public's Help

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Searchers hunting a small plane with four auto company employees aboard are seeking the public's help. "If anyone thinks they have any information, we urge them to call the Civil Air Patrol or their local police," a spokesman at the patrol's search headquarters in Battle Creek said Wednesday. The spokesman said there have been some tips from the public and each was checked, but without success. Meanwhile, planes combed areas from 40 miles north of Milwaukee around the Lake Michigan shoreline through Illinois and Indiana to Saugatuck as the search continued. "We're just searching our hearts out," the spokesman at search headquarters said. There was a brief flurry of activity Wednesday afternoon when a plane spotted debris in Lake Michigan near Gary, Ind. But the Civil Air Patrol said the material had no connection with the missing plane.

Escapee's Bond Is $100,000

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A prison escapee, charged with kidnapping an Upper Peninsula woman kept hostage for a week, is being held under $100,000 bond pending examination on the federal charge. Douglas W. Henry, 22, of Lansing, demanded examination during an appearance Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate Stephen Karr. The magistrate set that hearing for Monday afternoon and granted Henry's request for a court-appointed lawyer. Meanwhile, Henry is being held in the maximum security sector of the Kent County Jail. Henry is charged with kidnapping Evelyn VanTassel, 38, of Marquette. The abduction occurred three days after Henry escaped from a prison camp near Marquette where he was serving two burglary sentences.

Student Aid's On Way

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Help may be on the way for college students moaning about rising tuition rates. An additional $1.3 million for state scholarships and tuition grants was approved Wednesday by the Committee on Colleges and Universities. The bill would help pay education costs for about 1,000 more students, said Rep. Jackie Vaughn, D-Detroit. Vaughn is committee chairman. "I do not consider this adequate, but it marks a beginning. Unless something is done, higher education will be priced out of the reach of the masses," he said. The supplemental appropriations bill came out of an emergency meeting of the committee.

$181,000 GRANT DUE

Hartford Twp. Ratifies Pact

HARTFORD — The Hartford township board last night ratified an agreement that will enable the township to receive a $181,000 federal grant for construction of a new township hall. Meeting in special session, the board also set another special meeting for Oct. 5 to review architectural plans and specifications and issue a call for construction bids.

The board learned in July the grant had been awarded from the Commerce department's Economic Development Administration (EDA). Leslie Cripps, Berrien Springs consultant who handled the township's initial application for the funding, was named last night as project coordinator. His fee was set at $2,000 plus expenses.

Cripps told the board that the grant requires construction to begin before Dec. 10. Cripps also outlined four new requirements of the EDA for the funding. Those include that at least 10 per cent of the construction be done by minority contractors; that preference in hiring be given disabled veterans; that no illegal aliens be hired to work in the construction; and that contractors must use American-made goods in construction.

The township plans to construct the hall and utility building on land it owns between the Hartford city limits and I-94 west of CR-187, south of the township cemetery.

Shelter Planned For Abuse Victims

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

BERRIEN CENTER — Michigan's first family shelter for abused children and wives will be in operation in Berrien county by Nov. 15, it was announced yesterday during the first annual meeting of the Berrien County Child Abuse and Neglect Task Force at the Berrien juvenile center.

The task force is an independent group of volunteers and employees from more than 20 agencies and organizations that deal with abused and neglected children. Fostering the exchange of information is a goal of the group, according to chairman Peg Clarke, a Niles volunteer.

The family shelter was explained by Frank LaClair, program coordinator from the Child and Family Services of Michigan St. Joseph office. LaClair said his agency recently learned it will receive a $69,000 grant from the state department of social services to operate the shelter until Sept. 30, 1978.

Deputies Back Compromise

DETROIT (AP) — A compromise plan on freeway patrols has won the support of Wayne County deputies. Under the bill the 650 deputies are supporting, local police and deputies would patrol freeways in seven metropolitan areas in Michigan, a union spokesman said.

The governor however wants state police troopers to patrol freeways in the Detroit area and has agreed to supply patrols for the other metropolitan areas to keep them on Detroit freeways.

End Cronyism, Stockman Urges

Fourth District Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph), one of the first members of Congress to call for the resignation of Bert Lance, said today he hopes President Carter will choose a new budget director on the basis of qualifications and not political cronyism.

Here is the text of Stockman's statement:

"I've maintained all along that Mr. Lance should go simply because I believe he's not fit for the job and never has been. I think we need to remember that the director of OMB is the second most powerful position in the federal government, second only to the President himself.

"It involves or entails the awesome responsibility to develop and manage a $400 billion budget and to conduct oversight over all the far flung federal agencies administering federal programs and federal tax dollars.

"From the record it appears to me that Mr. Lance had a very difficult time just managing a small town bank in Georgia in a professional and sound manner. And it demonstrates very clearly once again that old principle that cronyism is certainly no acceptable or valid basis for appointment to high-level or key federal positions in the administration.

"So I hope this now frees the President to go and search and find a new director of the OMB who will be talented and who will have the credentials that are necessary for this very critical post."

Young Pair Victims Of Suicide Pact

THREE RIVERS, Mich. (AP) — A suicide pact led to the deaths of two young people whose bodies were found in a car parked in a wooded area, say Saint Joseph County sheriff's deputies.

The bodies of Becky Hillier, 17, of Valparaiso, Ind., and Michael Porter, 21, of Three Rivers, were found Tuesday.

Asphyxiation was the cause of death, authorities said. Autopsies were planned initially, but it was decided later that no autopsies would be conducted.

Witnesses said one end of a vacuum cleaner hose was attached to the auto's exhaust pipe with the other end leading into the car's interior.

Miss Hillier was the daughter of a Valparaiso attorney. Porter was the son of a Three Rivers physician.

Wife Abuse Is Target

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Eight bills broadening law enforcement powers to protect persons abused by their spouses are being introduced by Rep. Conde Binsfeld, R-Maple City. "What we are talking about is a question of victimization, and usually it is the women who are the victims," Mrs. Binsfeld said Wednesday. "It is clear to me that present Michigan laws do not offer sufficient protection against spouse abuse." The bills would give police the power to make arrests based on probable cause in domestic abuse cases. They also would prohibit prosecutors from requiring a security be paid by a woman bringing a charge. The proposed bills also would require law enforcement authorities to compile statistics specifically in spouse abuse cases, require police to receive training in such cases and establish short-term crisis centers to administer medical and child care. The bills would apply to spouses, former spouses and persons of the opposite sex who are living together.

Third 'Apple Butter' Party This Weekend At Eau Claire

EAU CLAIRE — The third annual "Apple Butter" party of the Eau Claire village-Berrien-Pipestone township fire department will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24-25, according to Robert Fecho, department secretary-treasurer. The party begins at Elizabeth park in the village at 6 p.m. Saturday, when apple butter cooking starts. The cooking continues through the night, according to Fecho. The cooking party is open to the public. Then on Sunday, from noon to 5 p.m., a barbeque chicken roast will be held at the park featuring an antique show and door prizes. Cost of the dinner is $2.50 per person with children under five free. Proceeds will go toward the firemen's benefit fund, according to Fecho.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT: Parliament Building in Ottawa, Canada's capital city, is among places viewers of 29th annual Twin City Camera club's travel and adventure series will see in first program. "Ontario Onward!" will be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at St. Joseph high school.

Armchair Tours Begin Sept. 25 With Ontario

The Twin City Camera club kicks off its 29th annual travel and adventure series with "Ontario Onward!" featuring the towering forests, raging waters and vivacious cities of that Canadian province. The program will be presented in the auditorium of St. Joseph high school Sept. 25 at 2:30 p.m. and Sept. 26 and 27 at 8 p.m., according to Herbert Hein, club president. "Ontario Onward!" was prepared by Joe Adair, a native Midwesterner who lives in Waterloo, Iowa, he has high regard for the inhabitants of the lands he visits and records. To Adair, the country alone conveys little without including the story of the people who have shaped — or have been shaped by — that land. In his presentations, the land becomes a backdrop for the lives of people. Adair gives this description of Ontario: "Indians named her and every generation since has borrowed from diverse origins to build a pride of common prosperity. Ontario is a whole country within itself — one thousand miles each way."

U.S., Russ Resume Talks

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are resuming arms talks, apparently prepared to concede that the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty now in effect will expire in 11 days without a new agreement to replace it.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who held two negotiating sessions this past spring, headed the delegations for today's talks at the State Department.

The initial SALT agreement, signed five years ago, imposed limits on land-based and submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missiles of the two superpowers.

The current talks have been deadlocked for 18 months, and under one plan the two sides would adhere to the current agreement beyond its Oct. 3 expiration date.

The talks scheduled for today originally were set for Sept. 7-9 in Vienna but were postponed, ostensibly to allow Vance to attend the Panama Canal treaty signing and to permit Washington and Moscow more time for preparations.

Administration officials have insisted all along that the principal goal is to reach an arms agreement equitable to both sides without taking into account arbitrary deadlines.

Thus, although an eleventh hour breakthrough is anticipated, officials said the two sides will exchange ideas on ways to break the deadlock.

The key hangups have involved Soviet attempts to limit the U.S. cruise missile, similar to an unmanned jet plane with a nuclear warhead, and American efforts to restrict long-range use of the Soviet Backfire Bomber.

For the administration, the most worrisome aspect about an informal agreement to extend the SALT I agreement seems to be that it is bound to run into demands from Congress for a say in the process.

The administration hopes to sidestep a congressional role in order to avoid a potentially divisive public debate on U.S. arms policy while negotiations are going on for future arms limitation.

Officials also say they are hopeful of keeping congressional involvement to a minimum to maintain maximum flexibility in negotiations with the Soviets.

But the arms control law requires Congress to approve "any action" that places limits on U.S. armaments. The issue before the administration is a question of whether an extension of already agreed limits represents "an action" subject to congressional review.

Congressional sources wonder whether the Soviets can be trusted to continue to observe the terms of SALT I even though they are not legally required to do so.

Heading North

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Civil Rights Department, which investigates allegations of discrimination, will send staff members to Marquette on Oct. 18-19.

The move is aimed at making it easier for the public to file formal complaints with the agency, which has few offices in northern Michigan.

DID BERT GET CARTER'S MESSAGE? Cat-And-Mouse Game Is Over

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter decided sometime Tuesday that it was time to stop playing cat and mouse with the future of Bert Lance.

So Carter scheduled a long-delayed news conference, a decision that touched off a rapid series of developments that reached a climax Wednesday with his announcement that Lance, his friend, confidant and sometime banker, was resigning as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Although many predecessors were names-without-faces so far as most Americans were concerned, Lance was much more. He was close to Carter. A lot of folks thought about him as "deputy president."

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, in announcing the news conference, quoted his boss as saying, "Why don't we just go ahead and have one? I'm tired of moving the thing around."

When Powell was asked if these were Carter's exact words, he reported the President was "more vivid than that."

It was one sign of the emotional atmosphere around the White House when Carter decided to meet the press after holding off for a week because he wasn't ready with any firm answers about Lance's fate.

The decision to hold the news conference was closely followed by a flurry of meetings culminated by the Lance resignation. Powell was asked afterwards if Carter had set out, in this fashion, to send Lance the message that it was time to make some basic decisions.

"Obviously, that was a possibility," Powell replied.

A few days earlier, Powell had said of a forced Lance resignation, "Certainly that would not be an easy thing for the President to do."

So there was at least an outward impression that Carter, unwilling to fire his friend to rid himself of a potential political liability, forced the issue in a way that prodded Lance into taking the initiative.

Once the news conference was scheduled, the next step involved a supposedly casual tennis match on the White House courts. It was the kind of match that only the President could engineer.

Powell announced the decision to hold the news conference at about 2 p.m. Tuesday. At 5 p.m., the President, Lance, top presidential aide Hamilton Jordan and speechwriter Jim Fallows began a round of tennis on the White House courts. The game ended at 8:30 p.m. Jordan and Fallows departed.

Carter and Lance sat, alone, on chairs near the secluded tennis court.

There, with the sun beginning to set, Lance told his longtime friend, the President, that it would be best if he left the Office of Management and Budget and returned to Georgia. However, he said he wanted to talk with his wife and his attorney.

Jordan and Powell each found out about the Lance decision later Tuesday evening as Carter worked alone in the Oval Office.

Lance was back at the White House by 8:30 a.m. Wednesday for another talk with Carter.

Lance went to his Georgetown home for lunch with his wife, LaBelle. After lunch, the Lances came out to drive to the White House for one more talk with Carter. There was a parking ticket on Lance's windshield.

Lance's Future Murky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance faces a troubled financial future as he and his wife pack their bags and head home for Georgia.

The Lances have not said what they will do now that Lance has resigned his White House job, but President Carter said his former budget director "needs to go home to take care of his business."

Mrs. Lance told reporters Wednesday night: "I think we'll go back to Georgia. I hope God will send me back for a while. I want to see my children."

The Lances still have their 50-room Butterfly Manna mansion, one of the biggest and most elaborate estates in the exclusive Buckhorn section of Atlanta.

The Lances put the mansion up for sale for $2 million last month, but it has not been sold. It was not clear whether they would live there. They also own a $100,000 house in Calhoun, Ga., and a vacation home on Sea Island, Ga.

Now that he is leaving Washington, Lance will no longer have to pay the $18,000-a-year rent for his house in Georgetown, and will not have to sell his stock in the National Bank of Georgia at a loss.

He owned about $2.9 million in National Bank of Georgia stock when he took office, but it has declined in value from 17 cents a share to about 12 cents. He could lose $1 million if he sells it.

House Under Pressure Not To Override Veto

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Newly-passed laws could be blocked and public scrutiny evaded if a bill vetoed by the governor is voted into law, several consumer and environmental groups warn.

The organizations Wednesday urged state House members to vote against overriding the veto of the bill, which is designed to give the legislature greater control over how new laws are implemented by state agencies.

They contend the bill would encourage agencies to evade writing new rules, and instead issue "policies" or "interpretations" requiring no hearings or public participation.

And they said the bill also would permit a handful of lawmakers to block a law already passed by the full legislature, simply by refusing to approve new rules and regulations. Signing the letter to House members were representatives of the West Michigan Environmental Action Council, the Consumer Alliance of Michigan, the Michigan Citizens Lobby, the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan and the Sierra Club.

The Senate voted Tuesday to override Gov. William Milliken's veto of the bill. A House vote on the issue is not expected until at least next week, with indications the tally will be close.

The bill would reverse the procedure by which the legislature reviews rules written by state agencies in implementing new laws.

Now, the rules take effect automatically unless rejected. Under the bill, a special House-Senate committee or the full legislature would have to approve them before they go into effect.

Lawmakers say it's the only way to gain control over how bureaucrats interpret new laws. Milliken says it tips the balance of power between the executive and legislative branches and threatens to hinder agencies from doing their duties.

ENERGY PLAN HIT

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — President Carter's proposed energy program would force Americans to pay more for their energy without assuring them that there will be enough to meet growing needs, says Allen Murray, a Mobil Oil Corp. executive.

The organizations urging the veto be upheld said the bill could make it more difficult to implement legislation (than passing it in the first place).

They argued that agencies, faced with warring lawmakers' votes to put new laws into effect, will abandon the rule-making process and simply issue policies or interpretations which require no hearings. That would reduce citizen participation in public policy-making, they said.

The bill also would permit a handful of lawmakers to stymie the intent of the entire legislature by blocking rules — and thus the new law — "a virtual pocket veto on administrative action by the entire state government," the groups said.

Lawmakers could keep controversial rules off the committee's agenda, or trade votes, to block new laws already passed by both the House and Senate, the groups said. The agency involved would then have to win approval in the full legislature to put the law into effect.

Briton Says PBB Film Unbiased

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A British film producer says he had no idea his television documentary on Michigan's PBB crisis would become a political issue.

Producer John Fielding says his documentary is not biased, despite complaints by Gov. William Milliken that the film, "The Poisoning of Michigan," portrays him as ineffectual in dealing with the disaster.

Fielding, who sat in the state Senate gallery Monday night while the film was shown, said his documentary is a "compelling piece of work" about the "worst man-made disaster in American history."

He also said Wednesday that he was dismayed to see the film being used as a political tool by Sen. Patrick McCollough, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

McCollough bought a copy of the film for $600 and is showing it "in the interest of truth and public information."

The film, "The Poisoning of Michigan," will be shown by the national Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) network next month. Milliken has complained that parts of the documentary are inaccurate and outdated.

Fielding's documentary is about the contamination of Michigan's dairy cattle, which began in 1973 when polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) was accidentally mixed with livestock feed. Thousands of animals had to be slaughtered.

Milliken — whose administration reportedly is portrayed as ineffective in its handling of the crisis — has written a PBS official asking that the film be at least updated before it is shown.

Fielding said the PBS version of his film has been edited to include a brief note at the end explaining recent developments. And PBS station directors in Michigan have indicated they will provide follow-up time for Milliken and state officials to respond to the documentary.

Milliken said McCollough's showing of the film in Lansing and Detroit amounted to "politicizing" the issue. A Milliken aide said, "The fact that McCollough is using the film seems to be saying something about the objectivity of the program."

Fielding defended the documentary.

"My films have a personal viewpoint. You can't get away from that. But they are not biased. You don't have to sensationalize something like the PBB crisis — it's appalling enough," Fielding said.

The British producer said he will remain in the state until December doing research for a possible sequel.

Warrant Names Boy, 17

SANDUSKY, Mich. (AP) — An arrest warrant charges a 17-year-old Detroit youth with alleged sexual assault on a boy at a church camp, say Sanilac County authorities. Tony Sykora, Sanilac County prosecutor, said Wednesday the alleged incident involved a 9-year-old Detroit boy at a Michigan Catholic youth camp near Port Sanilac. Sykora said the warrant for first-degree criminal sexual conduct had been issued against Larry Leeper, who was a counselor at the camp last summer. The prosecutor said Leeper was being sought.

Novel States Case For Single Women

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harriet Frank Jr. has not been single for 30 years. But her first novel, "Single," has been scooped up by a prestige publisher, book club and paperback house at prices that make a presold winner.

"I feel modern literature has slighted the single woman, the tough-minded woman," says Ms. Frank, a top Hollywood screenwriter who turned to the novel for her 1970s story of women alone.

"There are books about weepers and wallers. I wanted to write a book about women who have a strong grasp on life."

"Fear of Flying" is fine," she says. "But what about the women who are doers and shakers?"

"Single," published this month with a first printing of 50,000, tells of four lone women playing out personal crises against the backdrop of a California seaside singles apartment complex.

"If you cast a wide net over any place where people live, you'd turn up an odd bunch of fish," Ms. Frank, who prefers that designation, declares.

Her women, she concedes, are not everyday girls-next-door. They are:

—Nell, a successful doctor whose cool detachment makes her love affairs temporary.

—Stella, a slovenly alcoholic poet who curses her benefactors while proclaiming her own brilliance.

—Hortense, a tough, black schoolteacher whose acid tongue burns her pupils, friends and two-timing boyfriend.

—Eunice, a sexually promiscuous movie studio secretary who retains a childlike optimism through affairs, abortions and abandonments.

There are traces of Ms. Frank in her characters. "Like Hortense, I'm naturally acerbic," she says, then grins. "Like Stella, I'm full of myself."

Despite some leftover movie stereotypes — the blowsy-blond-with-a-heart-of-gold — Ms. Frank says her novel, heavily spiced with sex, could not have been written 20 years ago.

"We're beginning to take a cooler look at women's place in society," she says. "Now women can make choices about careers and success."

"I'm trying to say that you can survive success if you have a strong sense of yourself. That doesn't necessarily require love and marriage."

"To be single," says the author, "is not to be a burden. It just means you're alone and it needn't be a tragedy to be alone."

However, in the next breath, Harriet Frank Jr., also known as Mrs. Irving Ravetch, cheerfully contradicts her own thesis.

"I've been happily married for 30 years," she says. "I think the married state is the best that life can offer. ... I think quite naturally women have a strong desire to love and be loved. ... I think the pairing instinct is a strong one, a good one."

"If you like yourself, you'll have good company and wind up with a man as well," she declares.

What about women's lib?

"I believe in Women's lib," say yMs. Frank. "But I would wish there wasn't that faint edge of hostility toward men. I like men. We have a common cause. I don't want my near and dear left out in the cold."

Her own liberation arrived before the movement, Ms. Frank says, explaining: "I was born to a liberated woman."

Seated in the antique-filled living room of her hilltop home, she remembered her mother, Harriet Frank, story editor at MGM studios for many years.

"She raised her kids, ironed the shirts, did the cooking and sold Louis B. Mayer on the idea of making 'War and Peace,'" says Ms. Frank.

"My grandmother broke sad in South Dakota. They were tough women." As a result, she says, "I was goal-oriented all my life."

Born in Portland, Ore., and raised in Los Angeles, she graduated from UCLA and received her first MGM screenwriting job "through nepotism."

"I used clout, which I recommend to everyone: Once you're there you have to prove yourself, but when you have an opportunity, take it."

At MGM, she met her husband, Irving Ravetch. They became permanent collaborators on a series of successful screenplays: "The Long Hot Summer," "Dark At the Top of the Stairs," "Home From the Hill," "The Reversers," "Hud" and more.

Her first novel offered a chance to work solo. "I'm very fond of film. But it's a highly collaborative medium," she says. "In a book, you can create your own landscape, your own world."

She has no doubts that "Single" will succeed and is already planning to write the screenplay.

"I think the book has something to say to young women and middle-aged women," says Ms. Frank, "and the old are too wise to have anything said to them."

FIRST PRINTING: Harriet Frank Jr., has not been single for 30 years; but her first novel "Single," has been picked up by a publisher and the first printing was for 50,000 copies. Here she tells interviewer, "I feel modern literature has slighted the single tough-minded woman, and I wanted to write a book about women who are doers and shakers." (AP Wirephoto)

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. I have had trouble with canker sores in my mouth for quite a few years. I've tried using hydrogen peroxide, and have gone to my dentist for treatment, but the problem seems to recur. What do you think of a series of smallpox shots? Has this been proven of help? — Mrs. E.J.

A. A series of smallpox vaccinations has shown to have varied results, but really helping very few people solve the canker sore problem. While it is a simple procedure to try, it can produce a severe reaction after the first vaccination.

What I would suggest first is eating foods containing lactobacillus, such as yogurt and buttermilk. Also, there are aids you can purchase in the drugstore containing the same thing in concentrated form. In addition, your physician or dentist can prescribe a cortisone ointment which may shorten the course of the sore and provide rapid relief.

Q. I had a difficult time placing dentures into my mouth and keeping them there until a friend suggested that just prior to putting them in I should eat a piece of candy. So, I use an after-dinner mint and it works. What is your explanation? — R.K.

A. The candy represents a pleasant stimulus which "draws out" the nervous tendency in expel the gag-producing dentures.

Q. When I went to my dentist and asked him to put on three porcelain caps for me, he refused. If I show him a reply from you, I think he will do what I ask. How about it? — D.A.

A. I'm sure you know I would not go "out on a limb" in your favor without x-rays and models of your mouth.

In fact, many dentists believe that porcelain "caps" are being overused these days, for cosmetic reasons, when more conservative procedures may better fulfill the needs of a patient. Sometimes a tooth which is unattractive to a patient could be moved by orthodontics into a more desirable position.

Dental insurance plans are great, but sometimes they encourage patients to put pressure on their dentist to place caps or crowns on their teeth, since they are part of the dental benefits of their employment.

I suggest you follow the advice of your dentist after you discuss your problem with him.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Sept. 22, the 255th day of 1977. There are 100 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, the Soviet Union exploded its first atomic bomb, four years after the first American nuclear detonation.

On this date:

In 1776, Nathan Hale was hanged by the British as a spy. He is quoted as saying "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country" as he was led to the gallows in New York.

In 1882, President Abraham Lincoln issued the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

In 1931, Britain abandoned the gold standard.

In 1961, the Interstate Commerce Commission issued rules forbidding racial discrimination in interstate bus transportation.

In 1965, a cease-fire was declared in a war between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

In 1973, Henry Kissinger was sworn in as Secretary of State, becoming the first naturalized citizen to gain the office.

Ten years ago: The British

Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON — Votes of area members of Congress on key roll calls for the week ending Sept. 18 were:

SENATE

"Gas Guzzler" Ban — The Senate voted 53-27 to ban production of new cars that do not meet specified standards of fuel efficiency — the so-called "gas guzzlers." The ban would begin with model year 1980, when every new car sold would have to average at least 16 miles per gallon. The standard would increase one mile per gallon each year until 1985, when the minimum standard would be 21 miles per gallon.

Supporters of banning production of gas-guzzlers argued the ban would aid in conserving gasoline. They also pointed out that it would not be especially burdensome to auto producers since 1977 model year cars are already nearly in compliance with the proposed standards.

Opponents of banning production argued that existing law, which applies fuel efficiency standards to the average performance of a manufacturer's entire fleet, allows more flexibility for producers to service a wide variety of consumer needs. They also said the proposed ban would save less than one tenth of one per cent of gasoline usage in 1985 beyond the amount saved under existing law.

The house has adopted an administration proposal to tax gas guzzlers but not ban their production.

Voting to ban gas guzzlers: None.

Voting not to ban gas guzzlers: Griffin (R), and Hagle (D).

Saccharin Warning — By a 55-38 vote, the Senate agreed to eliminate a proposed requirement for health warnings in radio and TV ads for food products containing saccharin.

Members who voted to eliminate the health warning requirement argued it was unfair to saddle broadcasters with health warnings that would take up most of the time for the ad, when the scientific evidence on the hazards of saccharin were so inconclusive.

Members against eliminating the health warnings said that the broadcast warnings were an integral part of the bill allowing an 18-month delay in the Food and Drug Administration's proposed ban on saccharin. Because scientific conclusions were still pending as to the benefits and risks associated with saccharin, they said, the American people should be given as much information on the subject as possible.

Voting to eliminate saccharin warnings: Griffin (R).

Voting not to eliminate saccharin warnings: Riegle (D).

HOUSE

Minimum Wage for Youth — By a single vote, 210-211, the House rejected an amendment to a minimum wage bill that would have permitted employers to pay a sub-minimum wage — 85 per cent of the minimum wage — to youths under age 19 for the first six months of employment. The deciding vote was cast by the Speaker of the House, who normally votes only when his vote is necessary to break an otherwise tie vote.

Supporters of the sub-minimum wage for youth argued employers need incentives to hire young and inexperienced workers. With a wage differential, employers would be willing to invest time and money to train unskilled youth, they said.

Opponents of a sub-minimum wage contended that it was merely a thinly-disguised way of assuring cheap labor and that businesses would substitute lower-paid youth for adult workers.

Voting for subminimum wage for youth: Brown (R), Stockman (R), Vander Jagt (R), Rhodes (Minority Leader).

Voting against subminimum wage for youth: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), Wright (Majority Leader).

Michigan State Issuing New Atlas Of Michigan

EAST LANSING — Publication of "Atlas of Michigan," the first comprehensive Michigan atlas in more than 100 years, has been announced by Michigan State University.

Intended for home as well as professional use, the 256-page, hard-cover book contains 400 full-color maps, each depicting some aspect of the state, its natural environment, its people, and what the two have produced.

The effort of nearly a hundred faculty, staff and students, the book has been about two and a half years in production.

MSU President Clifton R. Wharton, Jr. said the atlas represents a landmark in the state's publishing history.

"First, it presents a great amount of valuable information, and second, it presents that information in ways which make it interesting and readily comprehensible to the general reader as well as to the professional user."

In addition to its 400 maps, the atlas contains 85 graphs, 100 photographs, 5 original drawings and 50,000 words of text. Nearly all of the illustrations are in full color.

One example of the imagination employed is a population distribution map which shows Michigan in very dark blue with tiny yellow dots each representing 1,000 people. Cities show up as solid areas of yellow and rural areas are represented by single dots or small clumps of dots.

The net effect is as though the viewer were flying high over the state at night and seeing great bursts of light coming from Detroit and other cities and almost pitch darkness in areas of the Upper Peninsula.

Another innovative map gives a three-dimensional view of the major physical features of the state. This map, which is a computer-designed isometric projection shows the state as it might be seen from a space satellite over town and in such a way that the terrain close to the viewer is not larger proportionally than the more distant terrain.

Other pages include: — A series of maps depicting the changing outlines of the prestate Territory of Michigan and the Michigan-Ohio boundary dispute in which Michigan claimed but lost the city of Toledo.

— Locations and circulations of daily and weekly newspapers.

— Locations and call letters of all the state's television and radio stations.

— Maps depicting times and places of early frost, late frost, fall color, air quality, etc.

— Relative strengths of various ethnic groups and religious denominations within the state.

— County and regional variations in employment, types of industry, agricultural production, etc.

"Atlas of Michigan" is published by the MSU Press in cooperation with Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Co. of Grand Rapids which is distributing the book. The list price is $24.95.

USED CARS: Lou Koshar, who had car sales business in Waterford for 20 years, has relocated to Coloma where he has opened used car sales agency at 7083 Red Arrow Highway. Business features outdoor lot and 6,000 square foot indoor showroom.

Bill Would Ban Tandem Tankers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill in the legislature would ban from Michigan highways trucks pulling more than one tanker of flammable or explosive liquids.

The bill introduced Wednesday came two days after a so-called "double-bottom" tandem tanker loaded with fuel overturned on Interstate 496 just south of the Capitol.

Since the first of the year, there have been seven tanker accidents in the Detroit area, killing three people and injuring nine.

A recent study by the Michigan Highway Department showed that nearly half of the dangerous cargo accidents in the state involved tandem tankers. The vehicles are banned in at least 18 states and the District of Columbia.

Rep. Dennis Hertel, D-Detroit, said there is growing support for his bill. "I believe strongly that we should ban them immediately. The burden of proof should be directed at proving that the tankers are safe rather than waiting to gather evidence to prove that they are unsafe," he said.

Hertel also plans to introduce a resolution asking Gov. William Milliken to use his power to place an immediate ban on the tankers. He said Milliken has failed to take action.

Meanwhile, a House committee is studying the issue of tandem tankers. One proposal being looked at would ban the tanker during certain peak traffic times.

Gov. Milliken said Wednesday he would support a supplemental appropriation to significantly strengthen enforcement efforts aimed at double-bottom tanker trucks.

SHOW BUSINESS

Written Into Script

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What do you do when you start out to film a TV series and the star shows up pregnant? In the case of actress Marielore Costello and CBS' "The Fitzpatricks," you just write it into the script. She plays the mother of a large brood in the new show, so the producers just added one more. Seven episodes were filmed with her pregnant. Miss Costello, married to actor Allan Arbus, gave birth to her first child on Aug. 29. It was a 7-pound, 7-ounce daughter, Afia.

Film Classic Re-Released

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 25th anniversary of the 1932 H. G. Wells science fiction classic "The War of the Worlds" was celebrated by Paramount Pictures with a reunion and party. The George Pal film, starring Gene Barry, Ann Robinson and Les Tremayne, is being re-released on a double bill with "When Worlds Collide." For the party they rolled out the searchlights and red carpet and served champagne and cake to the celebrities and guests.

Actors Are Chosen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jane Fonda, Jack Lemmon and Michael Douglas will star in the action-suspense movie "China Syndrome," which Douglas will produce for Columbia Pictures. It will be Douglas' first production since the Academy Award-winning "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." James Bridges will direct and write the screenplay for an original screenplay by T. S. Cook and Michael Gray.

Upcoming Productions

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Niven will play the Colonel in the film version of Agatha Christie's detective novel "Murder on the Nile." Peter Ustinov is Inspector Poirot in a cast that also includes Bette Davis, Angela Lansbury and Maggie Smith. "Over Easy," the first TV series for Americans over 55 years, will begin Monday, Nov. 14, on PBS. Keenan Wynn has joined Roddy McDowall in the science fiction feature "Laserblast." NBC will film the flamboyant life of showman Florenz Ziegfeld, with Joanna Lee writing the three-hour script.

Contest Winners In Musical

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forty contest winners made a whirlwind movie debut in a musical number in "Grease," a 1978 musical starring John Travolta, Olivia Newton-John and Stockard Channing. All were winners of local contests. They were treated to a tour of Paramount Studios, taken to a Hollywood party and consumed for the number filmed at Venice High School.

Making Film Debut

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Belushi of "Saturday Night" makes his film debut in "Goin' South," now filming in Durango, Mex., with Jack Nicholson and Mary Steenburgen. Bob Carroll Jr. and Madelyn Davis, who spent 18 years writing for the various "Lucy" series, are the new producer-writers for "Alice." William Friedkin will produce and direct a film based on the murders of union leader Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

ABC's 'Soap' Wins Fourth In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Only three new programs finished among the 10 most-watched shows for the week ending Sept. 18, A.C. Nielsen figures indicate. One of them was ABC's controversial "Soap."

"Soap" finished fourth in a sweep by ABC of the top six places. An estimated 18.7 million homes were tuned in for the first episode of "Soap" the night of Sept. 13, according to Nielsen ratings released this week.

ABC finished ahead of rivals NBC and CBS in their competition for viewers in the second week of the new season. Nielsen checked 52 programs, and ABC's rating was 20.8, which represents 15.2 million households. NBC had 17.1 or 12.5 million and CBS 16.4 or 12 million.

The order of finish was the same the first week.

Three ABC shows popular last season were ranked one-two-three, "Charlie's Angels," "Happy Days" and "Three's Company."

Two other programs new to the current season were ranked in Nielsen's top 10 — CBS' "Betty White Show," No. 7, and ABC's "Eight Is Enough," No. 10.

"Soap" had been attacked by religious and other groups for its sexual content, urging advertisers to avoid sponsoring the show. ABC acknowledged the program's adult content, and advises parents to use discretion in letting their children watch it.

The first episode of "Soap" was opposite an NBC movie, "Sex and the Married Woman," which was ranked 14th for the week, and CBS' "Night of Champions," which finished 48th.

In order, the top 10 shows for the week were:

"Charlie's Angels," a 32.6 rating, representing 23.8 million homes, "Happy Days," 31 or 22.6 million, "Three's Company," 25.8 or 18.8 million, "Soap," 25.8 or 18.7 million, "Welcome Back, Kotter," 25 or 18.2 million, and the Sunday Movie, "Young Joe: The Forgotten Kennedy," 23.7 or 17.3 million, all ABC; "Betty White Show," 23.3 or 17 million, and "Best of All in the Family," 23.2 or 16.5 million, both CBS; "Barney Miller," 22.4 or 16.3 million, and "Eight Is Enough," 22.1 or 16.1 million, both ABC.

The next 10 shows were:

"Carter Country," ABC; "Maidie" and "60 Minutes," both CBS; Tuesday Movie, "Sex and the Married Woman," Saturday Movie, "Rooster Cogburn," and Monday Movie, "Billy: Portrait of a Street Kid," all NBC; Sunday Movie, "Judge Roy Bean," CBS; "The Good Fox Show," ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC; and "Rafferty," CBS.

PLAN HUNGER STRIKES MOSCOW (AP) — Members of the Pentecostal sect in four areas of the Soviet Union are planning a series of hunger strikes during the Belgrade Conference to call attention to the government's refusal to let them emigrate.

Briton Pushing 'Road' Show Hope-Crosby Duo Again?

Q: I loved those "Road To" pictures Bob Hope and Bing Crosby used to make. Any chance they'll do another? — C.S., Minneapolis.

A: Movie audience taste has changed considerably in the 15 years since Hope and Crosby made "Road to Hong Kong," but it now appears the time is right for another of the pair's comedy-travelogues. A big British film and TV magnate, Sir Lew Grade thinks so, anyway, since he's trying hard to reclaim the two in the best and most appropriately titled "Road To The Fountain of Youth."

Q: I know Barbara Walters' million-dollar contract makes her the highest paid TV news-person in the business. Who's the next best paid newswoman? — K.O., Manchester, N.H.

A: No woman comes close, although television insiders are surprised at the high salaries ABC-TV handed out a pair of relatively unknown newswomen, Sylvia Chase and Catherine (Cassie) Mackin. Both just joined the network at six-figure salaries. Cassie is the beautiful blonde who covered the political conventions for NBC last year. Word is that network newswomen are bargaining as hard as show biz superstars.

Q: How's Faye Dunaway doing with that movie, "Eyes"? And what's it about? — W.C., Ft. Paso, Tex.

A: Although shooting isn't underway yet, things are already tough and go. Faye nearly walked out at one point after a spat with producer Jon Peters about the amount of control she was promised over the project. An uneasy agreement was finally worked out. Faye plays a fashion photographer who shoots some X-rated pictures on the side. She'll also have some rather explicit love scenes with the handsome newcomer, Tommy Lee Jones, who portrays a detective trying to solve the murders of those photographed by Faye. "Eyes" sounds explosive in more ways than one.

NO STRINGS: When we found out Angelica Huston was going to keep Ryan O'Neal company when he went to London to visit daughter Tatium, we were sure that was Angelica's romance of the month. Now, we discover she took a little side trip to Mexico to visit Jack Nicholson in Durango where he's starring in and directing "Goin' South." Looks like the O-Neal-Nicholson contest is still a draw.

Q: President Carter's brother Billy is quite the card. What's up his sleeve next? — G.A., Fall River, Mass.

A: As you probably know, Billy left the family peanut up in New York pushing, of all things, a "peanut liqueur." Coming up next: "Roaring 30's" bash at a California amusement park. Insiders say Billy now reaps $5,000 for each public appearance — and that certainly isn't peanuts.

PRINCESS ON TV: Saturday Night Live producers are trying to entice Princess Lee Radzwill on to their show. Lee, who would not hate being a star, is reluctant to be made fun of or used as a spoof. Saturday Night writers are hoping they can convince her that they'll be kind.

Q: We're just dying to see "Grease" with John Travolta and would love to know when the movie will come out. — N.M., Chicago.

A: The film will be released next spring. The title, of course, will be changed when it is shown abroad. Italians will see it as "Brilliantino." Frenchmen as "Gommina" and Mexicans as "Vaselina."

Ann Arbor Investments Lose Over $1 Million

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The city of Ann Arbor almost lost more than $1 million because of bad advice from a private brokerage firm that has promised to repay the losses, a local official says.

City administrator Sylvester Murray said Wednesday the city dropped the money after relying on "bad advice" from an account executive at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, a large brokerage firm.

The account executive, Michael Carroll from the firm's Detroit office, has been dismissed, a Merrill Lynch spokesman said. Using city funds, the brokerage firm was engaged in arbitrage, a technique in which stock, bond and security values are jugged to take advantage of price discrepancies.

Unknown to most local officials, said Murray, city funds have been used in arbitrage since last January. Murray claims key city officials were not aware of the arbitrage investments were being undertaken until a week ago Tuesday.

Murray said a low-ranking city official, Marc Levin, a city employee who handles investments, starting engaging in arbitrage with Carroll Jan. 31. In May or June, Carroll started giving incorrect information, saying that the city's investments using arbitrage were profitable when actually they were not, Murray said. Murray blamed himself and city controller Lauren Jedele for failing to set up adequate controls on investments. Jedele was unavailable for comment.

Murray said Merrill Lynch agreed to the reimbursement of any losses Ann Arbor suffered after city officials threatened to take action through the federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

City investors originally calculated their losses at about $800,000, but a later computation by an outside adviser indicated that they might reach $1.1 million, Murray said.

'Sam' Suspect Has A Pen Pal

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAR
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A penpal friendship apparently has developed between the alleged "Son of Sam" killer and a woman who has offered him a "place to stay when he gets out of the hospital."

Rosina Belpedio, 40, said late Wednesday she thinks David R.

Berkowitz is handsome and "very close to me."

Miss Belpedio, nevertheless, has said for $100 a letter Berkowitz wrote her. "I needed the money. I was broke. I hope 'Sam' forgives me," she said.

Berkowitz replied to two notes Miss Belpedio sent him at Kings County Hospital, where he is undergoing psychiatric tests. He is accused of murdering six persons in a 12-month period.

In his note, Berkowitz thanked "Rosina" for being his friend and for her "lovely letters," promised he'd pray for her, but begged off on an apparent request for a get-together.

"...there are alot (sic) of things that can never be, such as, the two of us getting together," the letter read. It was signed: "David B. (SAM)."

The existence of the latest Berkowitz letter dated Sept. 11 was confirmed by an autograph specialist, Charles Hamilton, who said he bought it from Miss Belpedio at his gallery on Wednesday.

Miss Belpedio said she offered Berkowitz a temporary home because "eventually he's going to get out of the hospital and when he does he'll need a place to stay."

She said she'd still like to go out with Berkowitz or see him at the hospital.

"I tried to see him one night, to bring him a radio. But they wouldn't let me in. In fact, they tried to put me in the G Building," she said, referring to the psychiatric ward where Berkowitz is housed.

"I hope people won't get after me," Miss Belpedio said. "I just want to be a helping hand."

Nurses Due At Prison In West Virginia

ALDERSON, W.Va. (AP) — Two Filipino nurses convicted of poisoning patients in a Michigan hospital were to report to a federal women's prison here today for pre-sentence tests.

Leonora Perez, 33, and Filipina Narciso, 31, were convicted July 13 of three counts each of poisoning patients at Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital in the summer of 1975. Each was also convicted of one count of conspiracy.

District Cleared In Bias Case

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — The Saginaw public school system stands to reap $6 million a year in federal aid now that the district has been cleared of racial discrimination charges. The decision Tuesday by Administrative Law Judge Charles Campbell was applauded by district officials. The case was initiated by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Saginaw chapter of the NAACP two years ago proposed transfer of students from three predominantly black schools to predominantly white schools elsewhere in the city. But records failed to show the school district's decision not to adopt the proposal was racially motivated, Campbell said in his ruling. The judge said the district did not discriminate against minority students or violate the 14th Amendment or the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as charged by HEW.

In There Pitchin' (Horseshoes) At 71

By BILL DALTON
BELLEVILLE, Mich. (AP) — "My old man was a horse trader," is how Lee Jacobs explains in mid-swing how he got hooked on his lifelong addiction.
Clang!
Swing's mighty important, he adds, taking a swipe at some sweat gathered on his brow while staring intently at a small metal stake.
Machine-like, he cocks his arm. Then it swoops back, slows just a bit on the back swing, then shoots up high over his head.

Then comes the flick. Flick's mighty important, too.
CLANG!
No sooner has the ringing sound faded away than the arm is twitching again.
CLANG!
Jacobs' crystal blue eyes light up like a pinball machine on tilt. "Double," he cracks and starts the 40-foot journey he has made, oh, maybe a million times or so ever since his father caught him out behind the barn. He caught Jacobs' heaving, horseshoes. Real horse shoes. Actually, horses' shoes, the kind they wear on their hooves.

"Didn't get a real pair of pitchin' shoes until I was 22," he says, with just a touch of remorse about his primitive start.
There's a difference. Put pitching shoes on a horse, and you might get more than a jumpy look from the animal.
Pitch real horse shoes, those not specially balanced — and since 1927 at least — with "hooks" on the ends so they won't slip off the post so easily, and you might get some funny looks at a horseshoe pitching get-together, too.

Jacobs knows those looks. But they're usually looks of amazement at this tiny 71-year-old son of a horse trader who has been tossing ringers for 58 years.
Blek when he started there wasn't any fancy science to his pitch.
"Had a finger throw, meaning I put my finger on one end of the shoe and threw it," he explains. But soon he got science and found that the secret is to pitch it "so the open end hits the post," he quips.
CLANG!

He throws a "one-and-three-quarter turn shoe" (it revolves one and three quarter times in the air before hitting the stake).
"World champ throws a three-quarter turn, but he's an exception. Used to be a softball pitcher," Jacobs laughs.
Jacobs knows about champions. He was national AAU horseshoe king in 1944. He won the Detroit-area championships in 1939, 1940, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948. And in 1973 he became the first horseshoe heavier elected to the Michigan

Sports Hall of Fame.
Horseshoe competition is keener today, he says: Leading players hit 85 per cent ringers, and even lower division throwers hit at least 50 per cent.
He recalls the time he threw 20 straight doubles (40 ringers in a row), but it was in practice.
During competition he has thrown 16 straight doubles.
"Still lost the game," he grunts, with a hint of disgust.
All horseshoe pitchers have some peculiarities, he says, still loosening up a set of bulging biceps acquired after years of hefting the 2½ pound shoes.

His is a giant callous on his pitchin' hand. It comes from throwing 100 to 400 shoes a day.
"Have to keep up with those youngsters in their 60s I have to compete against," he says. "I'll keep throwing long as I can. Know a guy in his 90s from Georgia still pitches. Can't beat anybody, but he tries."

HE THROWS ONE AND THREE-QUARTER TURN

New TV Show A Willful Waste Of Time

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Rosetti and Ryan" is a new NBC series. It stars Tony Roberts and Squire Fridell as two wise-cracking bachelor lawyers. The harristers make a premiere plea of "watch me" tonight.
But you, the jury, should first consider all the evidence. It is found in a blunt instrument called the script. I enter it now as Exhibit "A" in a lengthy proceeding lasting an hour.
The script is about a flaky actress played by Julie Cobb. She sends our two tort-mongers a $1,000 retainer fee and tickets to a $100-a-plate bar association dinner.
Chief speaker at the event is a pro football quarterback, played by Robert Hogan. Attorney Rosetti doesn't want to attend the dinner. He says no one will be there but athletes and lawyers, a dull lot.

But Ryan says "where there are jocks there are pretty girls."
As the defendants are known to chase pretty girls, they go to the dinner. There, they meet their benefactor, who tells them she is the "Muffin" lady in a TV commercials. She then says:
"Excuse me, I want to blast him before I get drunk."
Whereupon she withdraws a .45 and puts several rounds across the bow of the quarterback. It is stipulated she wanted to scare him and make him publicly confess he is an "all-time rat."
It is further stipulated the alleged rat conned her into appearing in a movie that, with clever editing, he turned into a porn film called "Last Horizons." She alleges it cost her the "Muffin" job.
At this point, entered as Exhibit "B," she is charged with assault with a deadly weapon and is defended by the defendants.

In the rest of the hour, there occur twists and turns that we contend were deliberately created to willfully, unlawfully and perhaps illegally disguise the fact that this show has no plot.
During the aforesaid hereafter, which we enter as Exhibit "C," a press agent named Jim Gordon is slain at the home of his friend, the quarterback. The "Muffin" girl is accused of the deed.
Others get involved. Blackmail and point-shaving also are alleged. The show's turning point, hereinafter referred to as "the turning point," dwells on how fast a quart of pistachio ice cream can melt.
I submit that it is a willful, unlawful and perhaps illegal waste of time. I know you'll find it guilty of aggravated awful.
As the trombone player said when he missed his bus, I rest my case.

GREG HOPKINS
Tiger Lost

B. Harbor In LMAC Opener At Grand Haven

Benton Harbor coach Paul Bergan is hoping that the opening of the LMAC season will help his team rebound from last week's loss to Fruitport.

The Tigers travel to Grand Haven to open their league season. In other LMAC action Friday, Traverse City (1-1) travels to defending league champ Muskegon (1-1) and Muskegon Monn Shores (1-1) travels over to Muskegon Catholic Central (2-0).

Fruitport shocked Benton Harbor 30-20 last Friday. And Bergan is hoping the loss will be a learning experience for his team.

"I don't think any loss is ever beneficial," he says. "But hopefully the kids learned some lessons from football last week. It would be real easy for them to lay down now, but I'm hoping they'll really come back."

Grand Haven has been able to put together very little offense in its first two games. The Buccaneers tied Grand Rapids Union 14-14 and lost to Muskegon Reeths-Puffer 21-13. Part of Grand Haven's problem has been the switch from the wing-T to the wishbone offense this year.

"We had a terrible time moving the ball last year all season long," Grand Haven coach Jim VanDun says. "That's why we switched to the wishbone. But it's not something that you perfect all at once. We looked better against Puffer last Friday. We're starting to read better and that's really encouraging. We just hope to keep improving."

Grand Haven has gained an average of just 140 yards in total offense in its first two games. In fact, Benton Harbor's Maverick Burton has rushed for more yardage (289) than the entire Buccaneers team.

Grand Haven's top ball carrier is fullback Greg Ferguson, a transfer from Fruitport. But even Ferguson, a 5-11, 172-pound junior, has rushed for less than 100 yards in two games.

Joining Ferguson in the backfield will be senior quarterback Mark Wagonsky (6-2, 175) and junior halfbacks Bob Constant (5-8, 155) and Brian Merriman (5-4, 138).

The line will be made up of ends Dennis Ellis (6-1, 190) and Mark VanHaaften (5-9, 160), tackles Bruce Hoisington (6-4, 205) and Kurt Ralya (6-3, 245), guards Kirt Snick (6-1, 222) and Peto Plowman (5-10, 177) and center Eric Pelkus (5-8, 180).

"Grand Haven is going to be a real test for us," Bergan says. "Again the key is not giving up the big play. One time is too many times. Our offense is sound and our defense is sound. We have to play hard all the way. We can't be making mistakes if we're going to be successful."

Four mistakes beat Benton Harbor against Fruitport. The Trojans completed three long pass plays for touchdowns and also scored on an 82-yard kickoff return.

Burton rushed for 198 yards against Fruitport and will be the Buccaneers' main concern.

"We have to contain their speed," VanDam says. "They have great speed and that worries us. They come off the ball well and are aggressive on defense."

"We have to play better defense than we did against Puffer. We've got to eliminate our mental and physical mistakes. The key is we have to keep Burton from breaking clean at the line of scrimmage. Once he gets out there we don't have anybody who can catch him."

Running back Greg Hopkins, a transfer from Lakeshore, has been lost for the season. The senior tore cartilage in his knee against Fruitport and was to have had surgery this week.

The Tiger secondary will be bolstered Friday by the return of cornerback Gene Hines. Hines missed the Fruitport game with a knee injury, but was expected to be in the starting lineup against Grand Haven.

Surprising Galien, Watervliet Collide Ranked Lakers Host Bees

Is Galien's 2-0 record, the best since 1950, a fluke?

Hartford's Bob Teske probably doesn't think so...and neither does Watervliet's head coach Doug Borsum.

The Gaels made everyone in the Red Arrow sit up and take notice when they stopped Hartford 6-0 in four overtimes last Friday. This week, Galien (1-0) travels to Watervliet (1-0).

In other conference encounters on Friday night, Eau Claire (0-1) is at Hartford (0-1) and Berrien Springs (0-1) hosts New Buffalo (0-1). On Saturday, the Associated Press' fifth-ranked Class C team Lake Michigan Catholic (1-0) will entertain Bridgman (1-0).

"Sure we're concerned about Galien," comments Borsum. "Anytime you beat Hartford, you've got to have something. They definitely have a good team."

The main Gael gridders the Panthers, who also received state poll votes, are worried about Matt Koziel. "We will have to stop Koziel...whether he's at quarterback or fullback," Borsum declares. "We will also have to stop their quick dive plays off the option."

Of course, Galien hasn't built its reputation on offense...it's the defense which has been stopping foes. The Gaels are one of four area teams who have given up just six points in two games.

They have also allowed only 223 yards total offense, which is second in southwestern Michigan.

"They run a Notre Dame 5-4 defense and do a lot of stunting inside to confuse you," Borsum comments. "We are working on closing the gaps and picking up the stunts."

The defense employed by Galien shouldn't surprise too many coaches. Head coach Tony Yonto's dad, Joe, is the defensive coordinator for the Irish.

Borsum was happy with the play of Steve Schultz and Jim Hutchinson on offense and Steve Badgley, the nose guard, on defense.

The 11th-place ranking the Lakers, 2-0 this year, received was a big shock to head coach Terry Rose. "I was surprised we were ranked that high," he declares. "I felt our showing wasn't that good against Coloma, but we started to pick up last week."

"The kids are all shocked, too. But I told them it's how we end up on Nov. 4 that counts."

The contest could wind up a battle of defenses. Bridgman is the top defense in the area in yardage allowed (204) and has given up just six points. Catholic's defense has allowed just seven points and 294 yards in two games.

"We figured Bridgman's size will give us lots of problems," Rose says. "I feel they run the option better than we do."

The big man the Laker front line will have to move is Phil Ott (6-7, 240). "We will have to chop down that big tree to move the ball," Rose admits.

Two Catholic gridders are expected to miss the contest. Running back Phil Banks has a badly sprained ankle and punter Jon Masini has a bruised muscle in his back.

"I said earlier that we would surprise some teams and these boys have come along faster than expected," comments Bridgman coach Jerry Planulis on his 2-0 start. "They have taken to the game and learned quickly the fundamentals on offense and defense."

"We are a young, inexperienced and small team, but their attitude has been terrific. That has been the key to our success so far."

Planulis looks at Catholic as being a strong, quick and highly talented football team. "They are big and fast. Terry Rose does a beautiful job there."

The head coach has been pleased with the play of his offensive line, which includes Ott and Dave Skopce at tackles, center Don Foster, guards Tony Rose and Joe Jones and Tom Claudon and Steve Reitz at ends. Mike Marchek, a transfer from Decatur, has come into his own at defensive tackle, Planulis indicates.

"Bob Weed has done a tremendous job at halfback," he adds. "And Bill Moreland is a great asset. He's picked up the offense well. Bill isn't that polished a quarterback yet, but he's learning."

Lucchesi Files Suit Against Lenny Randle

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A civil suit seeking at least $200,000 in damages has been filed in Orlando by former Texas Rangers manager Frank Lucchesi against New York Mets infielder Lenny Randle.

Randle, then a Ranger, turned on his manager before a March exhibition baseball game at Orlando, knocking him to the ground with his fists and putting him in the hospital for five days.

Randle said he had no comment about the suit when asked after the Mets 4-0 loss to Pittsburgh.

The suit was filed in circuit court by Lucchesi's lawyer, James E. Shepherd, on Wednesday. And although Lucchesi reportedly is seeking $200,000 in damages, Shepherd said, "We are certainly not bound to that figure."

Under Florida law, a circuit court suit need only state that it is for damages in excess of $2,500.

"We will ask for a compensatory amount for my client's medical expenses and punitive damages, and that is a jury question," Shepherd said. "I don't know right now how much Randle is worth. The more he's worth, the higher the punitive damages can be."

Lucchesi was quoted as saying Tuesday that he requested that Randle be served quickly with the legal papers "so he can do a little thinking. I've had to suffer a lot with this thing and now I think it's time he started thinking about it, too."

"I'm not a bitter guy," Lucchesi said from his home in Arlington, Tex., "but he's been on easy street ever since."

The 50-year-old Lucchesi suffered a fracture of the cheekbone, a cracked rib and other cuts and bruises. He was hospitalized at an Orlando hospital for five days.

Randle was suspended from baseball for a month, fined $10,000 and eventually waived out of the American League. He then signed a five-year contract with the National League Mets.

Randle entered a no contest plea in July to a reduced misdemeanor battery charge and was fined $1,000 by Circuit Judge Maurice Paul.

Lucchesi was replaced as Texas manager during the season after an inauspicious start. He hired Shepherd to represent him on the case in July.

Rookie Leaves Pistons' Camp

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Training camp is two days old but the Detroit Pistons already have problems.

The National Basketball Association team got some good news and some bad news Wednesday as one rookie forward walked out of camp. The Pistons, however, greeted the appearance of ailing veteran Howard Porter and the team picked up former Detroit player Willie Norwood.

Fifth-round draft pick Jim Kennedy of Missouri threw in the towel and left the National Basketball Association team's training camp. Detroit coach Herb Brown called the rookie's departure "a surprise and disappointment."

At the same time, Porter reported to camp, leaving three Pistons still missing from preseason workouts. Porter was recovering from pneumonia. Kennedy was a three-year starter in college, where he averaged 12 points a game.

Also missing are Marvin Barnes, who is serving a prison sentence in Rhode Island and will not be released until Oct. 14, and forward Don Adams, recovering from surgery for a damaged Achilles tendon and expected to miss most of the season.

Meanwhile, the Pistons announced the return of Norwood, a 6-foot-7, 215 pounder who was signed after his waiver from the Seattle SuperSonics expired.

Norwood's signing brings to 17 the number of players Brown has to work with at the Crisler Arena camp, including seven forwards.

Norwood, who has a 7.8 scoring average and a .496 shooting average over his 385-game, six-year NBA career, played with Detroit from 1971 through 1973, when he was picked up by Seattle on waivers.

Jones Loses

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Undeclared Edgar "Bad News" Wallace of Phoenix took a 10-round decision Tuesday night against Ray Jones of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the middleweight main event.

CAREER CLIPS

Edgar Wilson (Dowagiac) is listed as the seventh top pass receiver in the Big Ten after two games. The Michigan State split end has five catches for 111 yards and one TD. His 111 yards is tops for a receiver on the Spartan squad.

Two Wyoming players from Benton Harbor aren't listed on the traveling roster for the Cowboys' game Saturday with MSU at East Lansing. Junior defensive back Rodney Atkinson and senior defensive end Craig Dudley won't be making the trip back to their home state. They didn't see any action in the Cowboys' two previous home games.

Big Series For Boston

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' Fernando Arroyo will try to stop the surging Boston Red Sox tonight when the two teams meet in the first game of a crucial four-game series.

Arroyo, 7-17, will go to the mound for the Tigers, who are fighting to stay ahead of the fifth-place Cleveland Indians in the eastern division. The Tigers carry a 71-81 record into tonight's contest, two games ahead of the Indians.

It is Detroit's final homestand of the season. The Red Sox are trying desperately to catch the New York Yankees in the American League East. After the Boston series, the Tigers play three games against the Baltimore Orioles, the other contending team in the division.

The Tigers close out the season with three games in New York.

Don Aase will start tonight for Boston. The Red Sox are in third place, 2½ games behind first-place New York. The Red Sox edged the Yankees, 3-2 Wednesday night. The Baltimore Orioles are in second place, two games off the pace, after defeating Toronto, 4-0.

Panthers Take Easy Victory

WATERVLIET — Watervliet breezed to a 15-47 cross country victory over Berrien Springs here Tuesday. Tim Lynch was first in 16:40. Mark Kappel was second, Bruce Frazee third, Randy Bettick fourth and Gary Hurst fifth. The first Shamrock runner was Nick Fullbright in sixth spot.

Battle Of Unbeatens In SAC Lawton, Raiders Clash Friday

Now it's Decatur's turn to try and sidetrack the Lawton express.

Couch Don Ruterink's Raiders, like the Blue Devils unbeaten in two games, host that tough Lawton squad Friday night in a Southwestern Athletic Conference battle.

Other SAC games find Lawrence (0-1) at Martin (0-0) and Gobles (0-1) traveling to Marcellus (1-0). In a non-league clash, Bloomingdale is at Pennville.

South Haven (2-0), which is ranked fourth this week in the Associated Press' Class B poll, is on the road at Osgood (0-2) and Plainwell (0-2) hosts Paw Paw (0-2) in Wolverine games.

Bangor (0-1) will try and gain its first KVA win when it hosts Kalamazoo Christian and Cover plays its first Allegan-Ottawa game of the year, hustling

Hopkins (1-0). Ruterink feels his first two games were good ones for the Raiders. "Mattawan was a good team, and in that game, things went right for us," he states. "And we didn't have any turnovers."

The head man expected Lawton's good start this year. "I think everybody expected them to be tough," he declares. "They had an outstanding junior varsity team last year and we respect them and expect quite a battle."

"Lawton has a pretty decent passing attack. I think Mattawan had a fairly good passing attack and we did a good job against them."

The Blue Devils will face Decatur's Dennis Warkentien—the number two rusher in the area with 245 yards in two games.

The Raiders have also been stingy on defense, having allowed just six points this year. That defense will be put to a good test as Lawton is fifth in the area in scoring with 47 points.

Decatur has trounced the Blue Devils in all six of the SAC games by a combined score of 184-13.

Marcellus' Joe Wood was definitely surprised about his Wildcats being ranked eighth in the AP Class C poll. "I was surprised because you might say we have had other teams with more experience and talent and have fought to get ranked," he states.

But this team is carrying on a winning tradition. Since Wood and assistant coach Jim Stevenson have been together, Marcellus has a 34-1 record.

Wood says that the surprises began right from the start. "The first surprise was that we won our opening game against a good Constantine team," he says. "That win gave our kids a lot of confidence."

Like Ruterink, Wood indicates that he will have a good passer. "Gobles has an awfully good passer and has improved immensely," he says.

But the Wildcats' secondary has been their strong point. In two games, only five passes have been completed in the Marcellus' secondary, and the Wildcats have come up with eight interceptions. Ralph Mason, Randy Small and Tom Perry are the mainstays of that backfield.

Marcellus has also won all six SAC games against the Tigers by a margin of 243-14.

In the Wolverine, Paw Paw will be out to break a streak against the Trojans...the Redskins have lost 12 straight to Plainwell. The Rams will be out to extend their 10-game winning streak, the longest in the area.

Former Great Brockington Waived By GB

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — John Brockington insisted he holds no grudges, but he couldn't disguise the hurt.

"Being waived like I was—that's kind of heavy, man. I thought I would be traded, but not waived," said Brockington, first player ever to rush for 1,000 yards in each of his first three National Football League seasons. He was unanimously cut by the Green Bay Packers Wednesday.

"No, I'm not bitter," he said. "But, yeah, my pride is hurt. But what can I do about it? I can kick down the refrigerator or kick down the door, but then I've got to pay for the refrigerator and get the door fixed, and I've got a sore toe. I've still got to exist, and I think I can still play—in the right situation."

Brockington's situation had deteriorated with the Packers over the last three seasons, and he admitted the biggest factor probably was his contract. He is in the option season of a three-year, no-cut pact worth $150,000 to $250,000 a year.

Having failed to find a taker in the trade market for a high priced fullback whose production had slipped by almost two-thirds the past three years, the Packers placed Brockington on waivers Tuesday. He cleared waivers, meaning no other NFL club had claimed him.

If unclaimed by 3 p.m. today, he becomes a free agent. And if he does not sign with another NFL team this year, the Packers must pay his full salary for the season, a club spokesman said.

The former Ohio State star, drafted by the Packers on the first round in 1971, rushed for 1,105 yards and averaged 5.1 yards per carry as a rookie, ran for 1,027 yards in 1972 as the Packers won the NFC Central Division title and amassed 1,114 yards in 1973.

However, his production slipped to 883, 434 and 406 yards the past three seasons. He carried 40 times for only 18 yards, a 1.7 average, during the 1977 exhibition season.

Punchless Huskies Next Western Foe

Western Michigan has dropped its first two football games this season...but coach Elliot Uzelac's problems seem trivial to that of Northern Illinois' Pat Culpoper.

The Huskies, who travel to Kalamazoo for a Saturday Mid-American Conference game at 1:30 p.m., have yet to score a touchdown in their three losses to date. NIU has been outscored 37-5.

SMC Takes LMC Runners

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan College's cross country team captured the first five spots in beating Lake Michigan College 15-48 in a dual meet Wednesday at Hampshire Country Club.

Kevin Battle was first for SMC with a clocking of 27:20. Mark Heely finished second for the winners in 27:49. Southwestern's Steve Tontlaff was third, followed by Wayne Collett and Joe Palazzolo of St. Joseph. Mark Manning of LMC was sixth and SMC's Steve Iharra seventh.

The Huskies are led by a Michigan boy who got away...sophomore Frank Lewandowski. The Muskegon Catholic linebacker leads the MAC with an 18.3 tackles per game average while linebacking cohort Jeff Grovak leads the team in pass interceptions with two for 30 yards.

Lewandowski is a candidate last week for MAC defensive player of the week honors.

Offensively, the Huskies are only moving the ball on the ground an average of 2.2 yards per rush while giving up 4.9 yards per rush.

They have been much more successful in the air, completing 34 of 88 passes for 327 yards.

Western's Dynamic Duo backfield of Jerome Persell and Keith Rogien are ranked in the top seven among MAC RUSHERS. Rogien has gained 181 yards on 37 carries (4.9 average) while Persell has netted the same yardage in 48 carries (3.8). Each has scored one touchdown.

In last Saturday's loss to Texas-Arlington, Rogien netted 109 and Persell 126. The duo has started 11 games and that is the third time both have achieved the century mark in rushing.

On defense, Watervliet linebacker Jim McVay is third on the team in tackles with 10 solo and seven assists. He's also the team leader in fumble recoveries with two.

In analyzing Western's performance to date, Uzelac explained "we've played two good teams and come close to winning both games. We haven't taken advantage of some good opportunities and our offense is still inconsistent because of a young line."

"The performance was better against Arlington, however, our defense allowed two big plays with Derrick Jensen's 73-yard run swinging the momentum around."

In other MAC games, Ball State travels to Kent State and Central Michigan is at Ohio University. Non-league battles will find Iowa State at Bowling Green, McNeese State at Eastern Michigan, Indiana hosting Miami and Toledo at Marshall.

'Rocks Sweep

GALIEN — Berrien Springs junior high school girls basketball teams swept Gallien here Wednesday. Vickie Buckins tallied 12 points to help the seventh grade team beat the Gaels 27-8. Beth Decker tossed in 10 points as the Shamrock eighth graders won 32-18.

Nicklaus Seeking Money Crown

MASON, Ohio (AP) — It's a now-or-never predicament that often brings out the best in Jack Nicklaus.

"If I want to be the leading money winner, I've got to win," said Nicklaus, grimly determined to salvage something from what he considers an off-year as the $150,000 Ohio Kings Island Open got underway today.

Making his last tour appearance of the year, Nicklaus needs a victory to overtake Tom Watson as the pro tour's leading money winner.

It would salvage what Nicklaus calls "a disappointing year."

The long-reigning king of golf has gone two years without winning a major championship.

"Anytime I don't win a major championship I consider it an off-year," he said. "It was a disappointing year from the standpoint that when I had the opportunity to win, I didn't. In three of the major tournaments, I was tied for the lead with two holes to play."

Nicklaus, $16,000 shy of his first $300,000 season in four years, trails Watson by $21,000 in pro tour winnings. Watson, who is not entered, will have a couple of opportunities left to finish No. 1 in earnings.

Nicklaus joins 18 other tour winners of 1977 to give the young tournament its best field ever. First prize of $30,000 would vault Nicklaus past Watson and give him the money title for the sixth time in seven years. He has reached the $300,000 total only twice in his career.

Winless since the Muirfield tournament in late May, Nicklaus said a twisted ankle in mid-June may have contributed to his troubles.

"I favored that ankle for a couple months and started shooting badly. I didn't realize it until recently," said golf's all-time money winner. Nicklaus has won more than $3 million in his 16-year career.

He was matched with South Africa's Bobby Cule and Tom Kite in today's opening round on the par-70, 6,837-yard Jack Nicklaus Golf Center course.

Nicklaus and last year's winner Ben Crenshaw are considered co-favorites among a field which includes 10 of the top 20 money winners of 1977.

SPORTS CAPSULES

TENNIS

PARIS — United States Open champion Guillermo Vilas of Argentina defeated Duan Joubert of South Africa 6-0, 6-2 in a first-round match in the Coupe Pirece tennis tournament.

It was the 42nd straight victory and 49th in a row on clay for Vilas.

MOSCOW — Billie Jean King beat Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union 6-2, as a four-member American squad won four of the first five matches in a U.S.-Soviet tennis tournament.

The Soviet Union's Alex Metrevel downed Mike Estep 8-4. Kristin Shaw easily defeated Yevgenia Biryukova 8-3. Ms. King and Mrs. Shaw teamed to pass Miss Morozova and Marina Kreshina 6-4, and in mixed doubles Ms. King and Estep beat Miss Morozova and Vadim Borisov 6-4.

LOS ANGELES — Van Witsky, the U.S. national junior champion, upset 18th-seeded Ray Moore of South Africa 6-4, 6-4 in a second round match in the Southern California Open Tennis Championships.

Tom Leonard also recorded an upset when he eliminated 10th-seeded Jeff Borowiak 7-6, 7-6.

In other second-round action Raul Ramirez of Mexico ousted John Lloyd of Great Britain 8-3, 6-3. Billy Martin got past Orny Paron of New Zealand, 7-5, 6-3, and Butch Walts of Fresno, Calif., whipped Jurgen Fassbender of West Germany 6-4, 8-0.

AUTO RACING

NAZARETH, Pa. — Formula 1 Race driver Mario Andretti said he will honor his commitment to the Lotus racing team until the end of 1978, passing up an offer to join Ferrari.

"I'm staying," Andretti said of his decision to stay with Lotus instead of jumping to Ferrari, the prestigious team which offered him a spot.

LMC Girls Take Opener

HOLLAND — Lake Michigan College's girls volleyball team opened its season Wednesday by beating Hope College and Muskegon Community College here.

LMC beat Hope 15-3 and 15-4 and toppled Muskegon 15-5 and 15-0.

Pat Villwock of Niles was the top server with 25 points. Villwock served the entire game in the 15-0 win over Muskegon. Janet Hess of Buchanan and Cathy Simmons of Brandywine had 12 points apiece and Mo McCarthy of South Bend finished with 10.

Hess and Karen Adlis of Buchanan were both outstanding at team reception and Mary Hoff had 16 successful spikes.

LMC will travel Tuesday to Kalamazoo Valley. The first home match of the year for LMC will be against Grand Valley State and Southwestern Michigan Oct. 6.

Ex-Area Dentist Handed Penalty

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer
GRAND RAPIDS — Dr. Julius B. Johnson, a former Berrien Springs dentist, was sentenced yesterday in U.S. District Court here for willful failure to file federal employers quarterly tax returns.

Johnson was sentenced by Judge Wendell A. Miles to two years probation and fined $2,000. Johnson had pleaded guilty to the charges on May 16. The charges included eight counts of failure to file employers quarterly tax returns.

The Internal Revenue Service office here said the omissions represented quarterly returns for the periods of Jan. 1, 1973, thru Dec. 31, 1974. Johnson who did business in Berrien Springs at the time, was charged with the tax violations on Feb. 9, 1977.

The charges filed by the U.S. Attorney's office with the court alleged that Johnson withheld income tax withholding and Social Security tax payments amounting to approximately $8,000 over the eight-quarter period. The unreported tax liability represents monies withheld from employees and matching employers contributions held in trust for the federal government.

U.S. Attorney Frank Spies said Johnson must still satisfy his tax liabilities with the IRS. Under existing tax law, a person convicted of criminal tax offenses in addition to whatever sentence is imposed also is required to pay the tax determined to be due as well as interest and civil penalties that may be assessed, Spies said.

The IRS office said Johnson is currently living in St. Johns, Mich.

Dance Workshops, Concerts Slated

BRIDGMAN — The HET KA Dance Company of Hollywood, Calif., will conduct belly dance-ing seminars in Bridgman and New Buffalo, Oct. 1-2.

The workshop at New Buffalo will be held Saturday, Oct. 1, at The Tin Tree Theatre from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. In Bridgman, the workshop will be held Sunday, Oct. 2, at Pebblewood Country Club, Bridgman, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Myrna Hilliard of Myrna Danse du Ventre Atelier of Union Pier is the seminar sponsor.

The dance company will also have two concert performances at The Tin Tree Theatre at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 1, and at Pebblewood Country Club, Oct. 2, at 6 p.m. Cost of either workshop is $15. Cost of either concert is $5 in advance and $6 at the door.

Instruction will include ethnic styles of belly dance forms from Egypt, Turkey, India, Persia and other cultures.

Allegan Getting New Directories

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
WAYLAND, Mich. (AP) — Directories finally giving residents of five Allegan County towns correct telephone numbers were due for mailing today.

Michigan Bell Telephone Co. said by month's end corrected directories should halt months of problems.

"I guess the first we learned of it was when the city manager went to see the mayor and told him the phone company was saying the mayor's telephone had been disconnected," a switchboard operator at Wayland City Hall said Wednesday.

"I could name you dozens of business places that have had this problem," she added.

Problems began in February when Michigan Bell Telephone Co. notified about 300 Wayland customers their numbers would be changed. But a new telephone directory issued later retained the old numbers.

Michigan Bell officials said a computer originally muddled white page listings of Wayland homes and businesses. Bell ordered all 5,000 directories covering the five towns reprinted. The five communities share a telephone directory although each town is listed separately.

But Bill Hensley, a Bell spokesman in Detroit, said a Chicago area firm printing the second directory somehow used plates with the original errors for its latest printing.

"That mistake was discovered in time to halt delivery of a second set of wrong listings in Wayland, Moline and Dorr but about 400 copies for Hopkins and Martin slipped through, Hensley said.

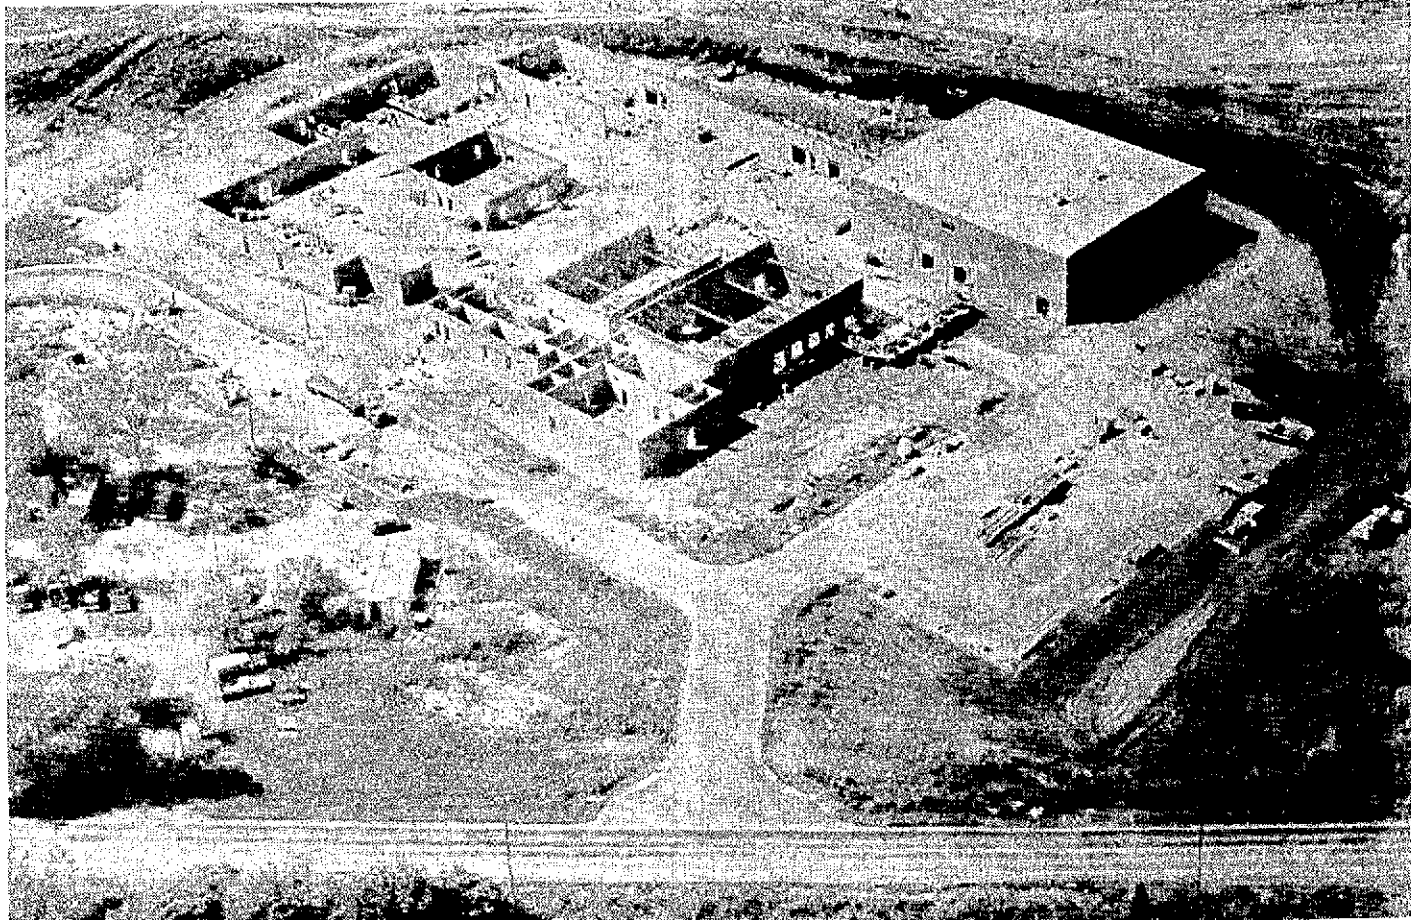

"The net effect of the second snafu is that we're about a week behind in delivering the corrected books," Hensley observed.

Michigan Bell spent nearly $20,000 printing corrected directories for both Wayland and Mancelona in Northern Lower Michigan after learning of listing errors earlier this month. Hensley said the reprints cost about $1 per copy.

But he said since the utility decided to computerize its listings in 1973, overall accuracy has been slightly above 98 percent. He said by year's end, all but 70 of the firm's 75 directories will have listings compiled by computer. Major directories such as Detroit, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo already are handled by computer.

Meanwhile, if you call Wayland Mayor Marshall Town's listed number, a recording will tell you the number "is not in service, disconnected or is changed."

But the recording adds if you "need help on a local number" ask the operator. A second call to the operator did provide Town's true number. But there was no answer at Town's number Wednesday afternoon.

BRIDGMAN SCHOOL: Construction of Bridgman's $2.6 million middle school is continuing on schedule, according to Dr. David Lechner, school superintendent. He said target date for completion is June 1, 1978. This 76,490 square foot building will replace 55-year-old Reed middle school in providing classrooms for up to 450 students in grades five through eight. New building is located at 10254 California road, about half mile south of Lake street. General contractor is Holland Construction Co., St. Joseph. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

Youth Horse Show Sunday

BY JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

A youth horse show will be staged Sunday at the Berrien County Youth fairgrounds, open to all horse owners 18 years or under residing in Berrien county.

Staging the show will be the Berrien county 4-H horse judging team, which is seeking to raise money to attend the national horse judging competition Nov. 5 in Harrisburg, Pa. The Berrien team won the Michigan championship last April and will represent this state in the national contest during the Keystone International Exposition at Harrisburg.

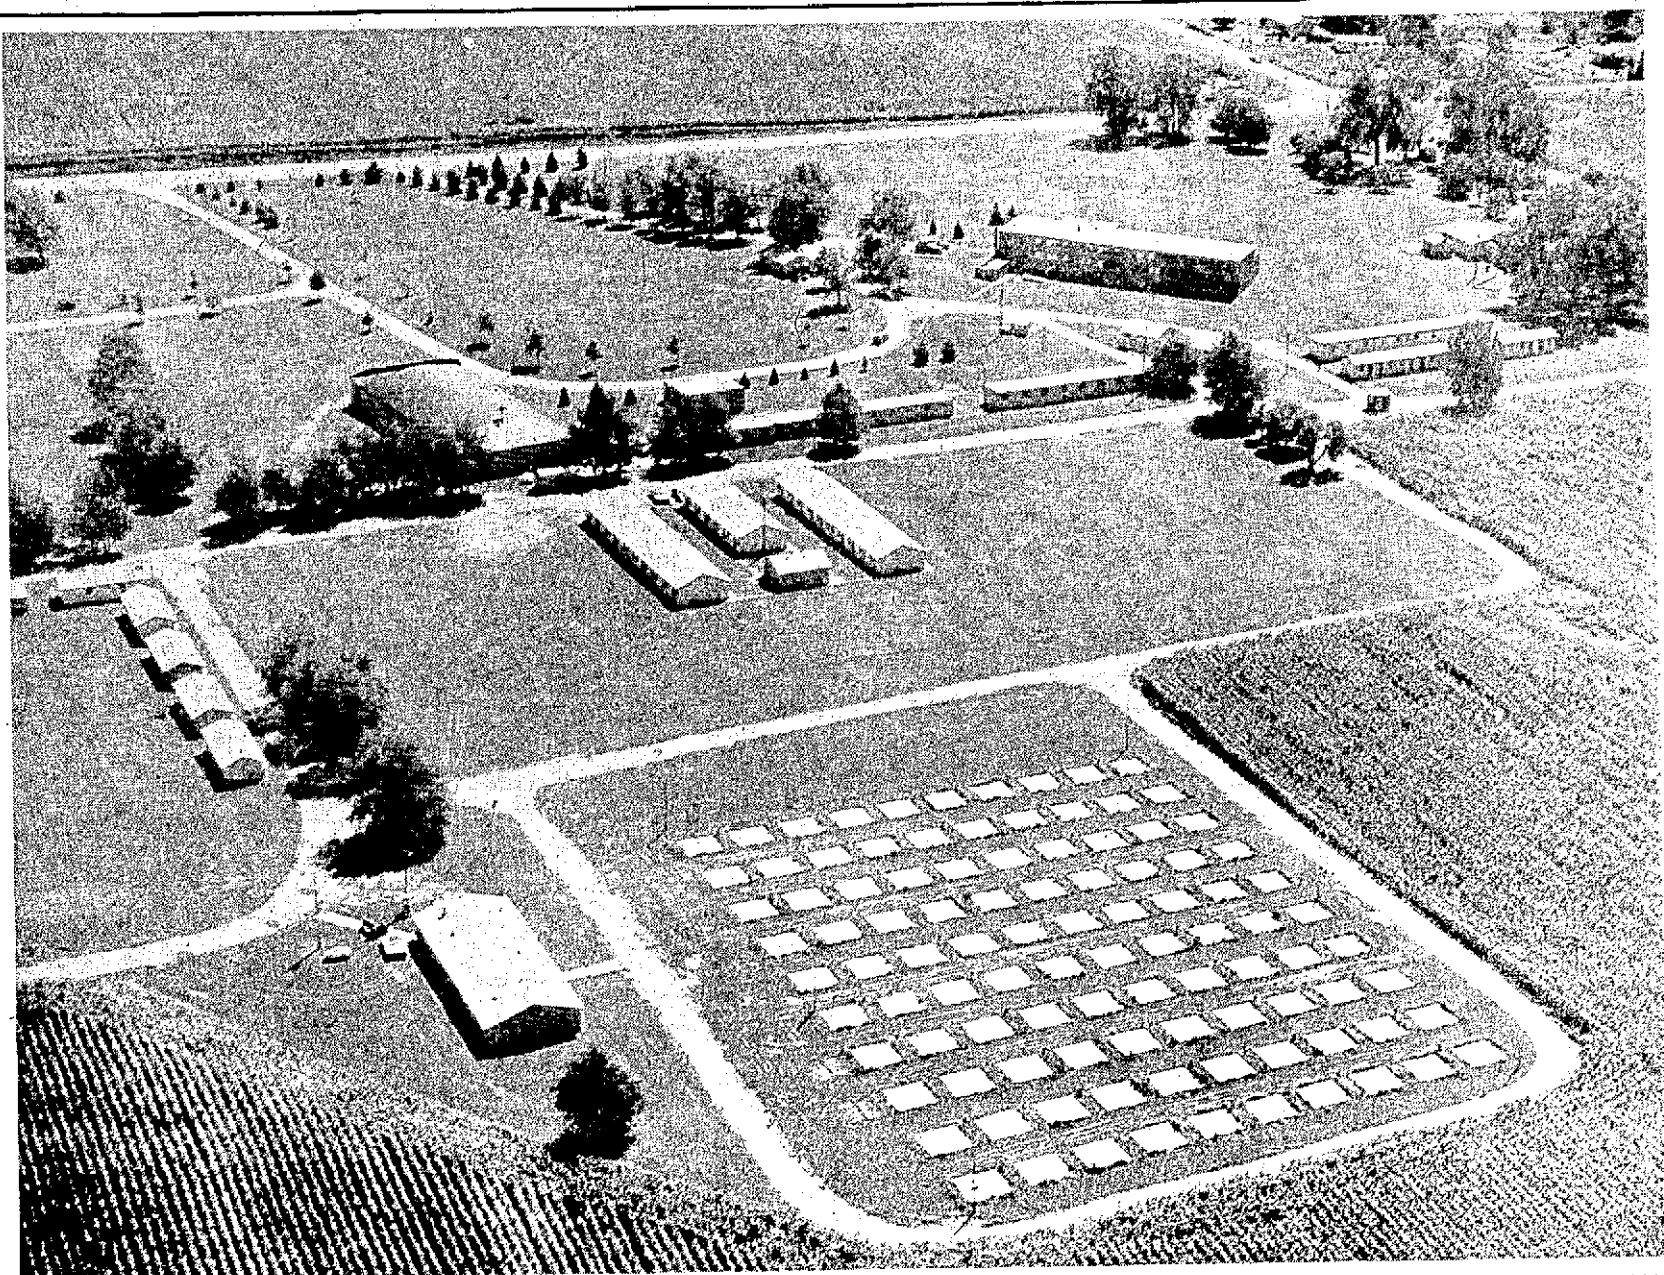

Sunday's show will open at 9 a.m. and will include a variety of classes, according to Barry Dorst, Niles, and Dr. Michael Chaddock, Stevensville, coaches for the team. Trophies will be awarded in all classes, and four high point trophies also will be presented. Entry fee will be $2 per class.

Members of the judging team are Paul and Pamela Rothfuchs, Buchanan sisters; Darla Bilton, Berrien Springs; and Michele Hoesbush, Niles.

'Blue Flu' Hits City

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — An outbreak of "blue flu" hit the Sterling Heights police force for the second straight day as supervisory personnel patrolled city streets today.

Dozens of police officers called in sick Wednesday and early today in an apparent pay dispute with the city. The 102 members of the Sterling Heights Police Officers Association want cost of living benefits in a new contract made retroactive to July 1976, when their last contract ran out.

Du-Wel Chief Labels State 'Anti-Business'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Representatives of the diecasting industry are telling state lawmakers "anti-business legislation" is driving manufacturers out of Michigan. Executives of 30 state diecasting companies and their suppliers met Wednesday with eight senators and 15 representatatives. David J. Walton, president of Du-Wel Metal Products, Inc., of Bangor, said high costs for doing business in the state forced his company to build a $2.5 million plant in Indiana rather than Michigan. The plant has a work force of 300.

Walton said the company was able to reduce costs by 12 to 15 per cent in Indiana.

"We still have well over 400 employees in Michigan and we want to keep them here," Walton said. "But a low profit business like ours cannot survive with further tax burdens or government regulations."

Walton cited high insurance rates for product liability and costs for workers compensation and unemployment benefits.

There are more than 65 diecasting companies in Michigan which employ up to 10,000 people and contribute more than $300 million to the state's economy. Most of them are linked to the auto industry.

Charles E. Drury, president of Hayes-Albion Corp. of Albion, said increasing business costs have forced his firm to close six operations in the state over the past five years.

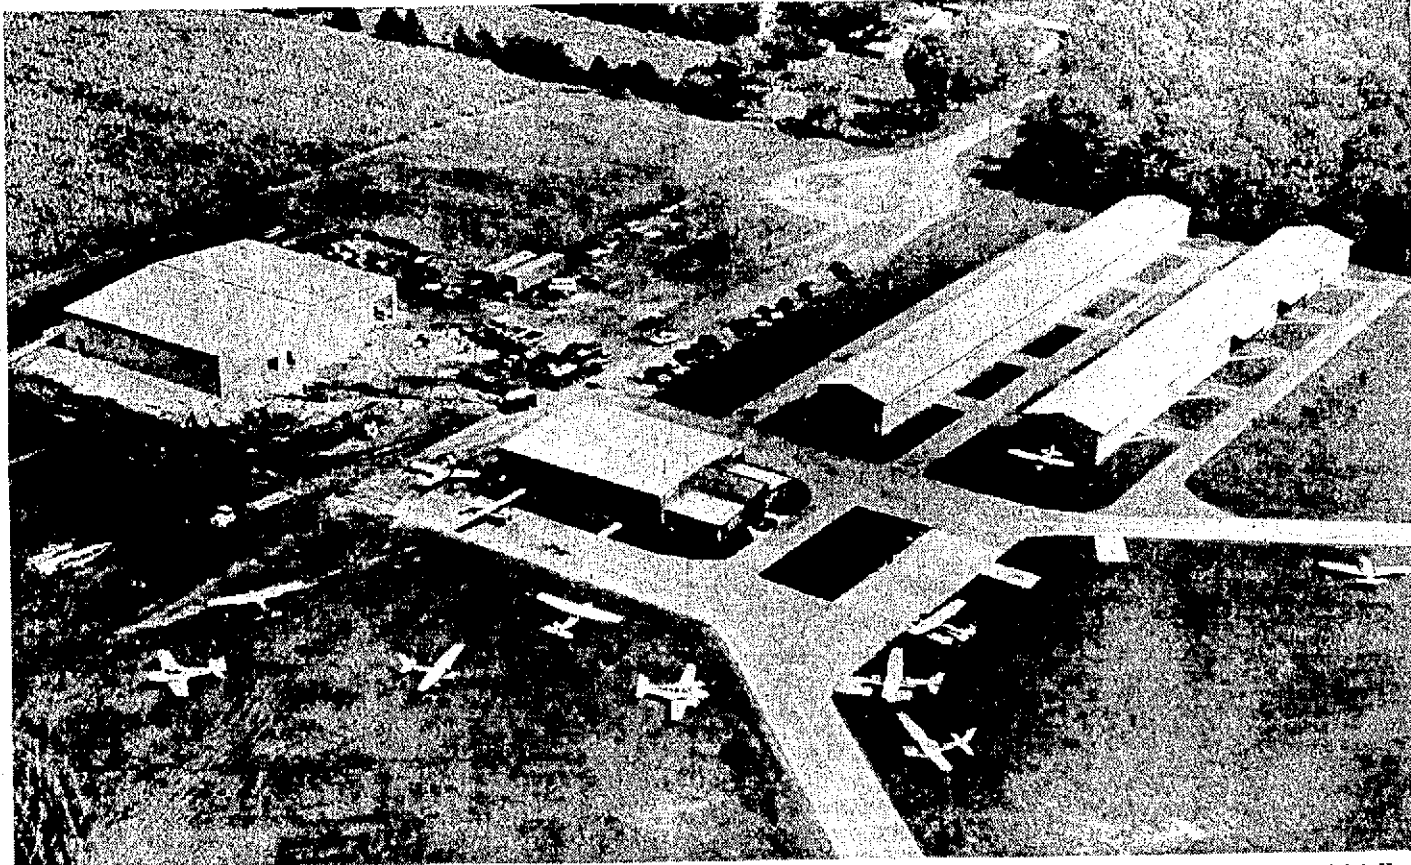

Drury singled out workers compensation costs as a chief problem. He said that costs for foundry workers in Michigan average $14.73 per $100 of payroll as compared with $8 in Pennsylvania, $7.56 in Ohio, $3.70 in Iowa, $2.82 in South Carolina and $2.42 in North Carolina.

Drury said that because of a sharp increase in product liability claims, his firm's insurance premium jumped from $59,000 in 1976 to $242,000 this year. He said the insurance company has warned that the 1978 premium will be $765,000. A bill now in the state House would ease a firm's liability for products.

Van Buren Gets Bus Law Caution

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren Prosecutor Ward (Steve) Hanlin, Jr., yesterday issued a press release yesterday warning that drivers who illegally pass school buses can expect to be prosecuted.

Hanlin said that since school has started this fall, he has received a large number of complaints from bus drivers about children being endangered by illegal passing.

The prosecutor said that under a state law, a vehicle must stop upon meeting or overtaking a school bus if the bus has stopped and has its red flashing lights in operation. The vehicle must stop 10 feet from the bus and may not proceed until the stop lights on the bus have been turned off.

Conviction of violating the law carries a maximum jail sentence of up to 90 days and/or fine and costs of up to $205, Hanlin said.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Decline Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, continuing its adverse response to the departure of Bert Lance as President Carter's budget director.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell nearly 3 points in early trading.

Losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said traders seemed to be concerned that the business community had lost its closest ally in the Carter administration with Lance's resignation.

They also noted fears that weekly statistics due out later today would show another jump in the money supply, prompting some further credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve.

Today's prices included American Home Products, down 3/4 at 27 1/2; Merck, off 1/2 at 56 1/4, and Cliticorp, 1/4 lower at 25 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.88 to 840.98, its lowest close since it finished at 838.63 on Dec. 22, 1975.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 22.20 million shares, the heaviest total since a 26.34 million-share day on July 28.

The NYSE's composite index dropped 41 to 52.08.

VAST RESERVOIR LIES DEEP

Egypt Finds Water In Desert

By NICHOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — A recent geological report about a vast fresh water reservoir beneath the Western Desert has raised hopes the barren area can produce new jobs and more food for Egypt's poor and growing population.

But experts who conducted an 18-month survey say that it may take a generation or more to fully develop the newly discovered resource.

In announcing the survey results recently, the semi-official Al Ahram newspaper described the subterranean reservoir as the largest in the world and said it "has the capacity of revolutionizing the economies of the Western Desert."

"It is good quality water and part of it could be used right away. The greatest limitation is the ready identification of arable lands," said William Warner, an American water expert who advised Egyptian officials conducting the survey.

Warne, 72, of Sacramento, Calif. told The Associated Press plateaus account for a large part of the Western Desert but that low-lying depressions seemed to hold more prospects for development because they contained better soil and were easier to drain.

Warne, a former director of the California Department of Water Resources and a one-time U.S. assistant secretary of the interior, said a great sheet of water-bearing sandstone stretched from the Mediterranean Sea coast some 500 miles southwards to near the Sudanese border.

He said about 2.5 billion acrefeet of water was contained in the sandstone, and a vast unknown quantity below that.

By comparison, the Hoover Dam's reservoir has 30 million acre feet which is used to irrigate one million acres of farmland in the United States and Mexico.

The water beneath the desert has accumulated over several thousand years from rain runoff and the seepage of lakes and rivers as far away as central Africa, Warne said.

Al Ahram claimed the reservoir, which extends 500 miles from east to west, is capable of producing at least 181.2 billion gallons of water per year. That would represent about 5 per cent of the annual flow of the Nile River.

Warne said he has recommended the Egyptians start three or four test plots of about 15,000 acres each. He estimated it would cost $1 million a year to provide a complete pumping and irrigation system for each of the test tracts.

He said the cost would not be prohibitive. "I don't look at this as an overly costly program," Warne said.

He said the water bubbled to the surface in some areas but ranged between 450 and 1,000 feet deep.

Ahmed N. Barkouki, board chairman of Egypt's General Petroleum Co., which conducted the survey, said in an interview that a demonstration project was planned for the Wadi Natrun area about 50 miles northwest of Cairo. He estimated the cost of lifting the water, cultivating the land and providing housing, utilities and roads for a farming settlement at about $15 million to $20 million.

Barkouki said he hoped the test project at Wadi Natrun would begin sometime in 1978.

The limiting factors, he said, "are the soil and the availability of the infra-structure. This land represents two-thirds of Egypt but there are only one or two roads."

"If the projects are capable of paying their own way, they may be attractive for private investment," Barkouki said.

Barkouki said that about 2,500 years ago, at least some of the vast desert area was used for farming. Barkouki said this was proven by the existence of a temple complex built at Kharga Oasis about 500 B.C.

Land reclamation projects in Egypt are under way in Tahrir Province, bordering the Western Desert, between Cairo and the Suez Canal, and around Lake Nasser, the huge reservoir behind the Aswan High Dam.

Some have met with only marginal success. The Tahrir project, for example, has reclaimed more than one million acres but much of the soil has been only marginally productive and needs expensive and lengthy enrichment processes.

Both Barkouki and Warne said the fresh water development projects could be dovetailed with a project now being studied to turn the Qattara Depression in the northern part of the desert into a 7,000 square mile lake. A canal would channel seawater into the depression and the flow could be used to generate electricity.

"I'm optimistic," Barkouki said. "I see the future of our country only in the development of these desert areas."

"It may take a generation — another 25 to 30 years — but how else can we accommodate the increasing population, provide food and jobs. This is the area of our future and we have to start now."

Hunter, 'Spare Those Wires', Telephone Manager Pleads

"Please don't shoot the cable!" That's Michigan Bell's request as hunting seasons open throughout the state. Fall appears to bring out the "hunter" in man and often telephone cables seem to end up as the hunter's targets, according to Edward A. Mabin, district manager here for Michigan Bell. Every year more than 100 cases of phone trouble are traced to bullets or pellets hitting telephone cables. Such careless use of firearms can knock out phone service to many customers, Mabin said.

"A single shot or pellet can cut off scores of conversations — one of which could be an emergency call for police or fire or a call from someone sick or bedridden. It is in the hunter's own best interests to avoid hitting our cables," he said, "because the hunter might need to use a phone himself to call for help in case of an accident." People can be legally responsible for damaging telephone equipment or property, Mabin added.
